

SENATE SLASHES OPA TO A SHADOW

EXILED RULER
LEAVES ITALY
FOR PORTUGALUMBERTO REGARDS HIMSELF STILL AS KING

BY JOHN P. MCKNIGHT
Rome, June 13 (AP)—King Umberto II charged today that the Italian cabinet acted illegally in naming Premier Alcide de Gasperi provisional chief of state, and then fled to exile into Portugal.

(A dispatch from Barcelona, Spain, said he arrived there at 2:50 p. m. (3:50 p. m. Eastern Daylight Time) tonight.)

Umberto's aide, Gen. Adolfo Infante, declared that Umberto had decided to abandon the country "temporarily" to avert civil war, but still considered himself king.

Umberto's proclamation, made public five hours after he departed, said:

"I raise my protest against the violence which has been committed—a protest made in the name of the crown and of all the people, both home and abroad, who have the right to see their destiny determined with respect for law and in a way which should dispel every doubt and every suspicion."

Avoids Bloodshed
He described the cabinet's action, taken early today, as "revolutionary," and accused the government of "assuming by a unilateral and arbitrary act, powers which do not belong to it."

De Gasperi's elevation, he added, "confronted him with the alternative of 'provoking bloodshed or of yielding to violence.'"

In this dilemma, the king said, he felt it was his duty to act in such a way that "other sorrows and further tears should be spared the people which already has suffered so much."

"I have confidence that the magistracy, whose tradition of independence and liberty are one of the glories of Italy, will be able to speak freely, but not wishing to meet abuse of authority with force, I leave the soil of my country in the hope of saving Italians from new griefs and new pains."

Gen. Infante said that Umberto would consider himself king until the supreme court rules on monarchist charges that the Republic's victory in the June 2 election was tainted with fraud.

He added that it was untrue that the monarch had decided to withdraw at the request of Allied authorities, as reported by the Monarchist newspaper Giornale Della Sera. U. S. Rear Admiral Ellery W. Stone, chief Allied commissioner for Italy, also said this was "completely false."

Monarch For Month
Umberto, 41, was king for little more than a month. His father the aged King Vittorio Emanuele III, sailed aboard a cruiser into voluntary exile in Egypt on May 9, in the vain hope that the move would retain the rule of the House of Savoy in Italy.

Umberto ascended to the throne and campaigned vigorously for retention of the monarchy. The supreme court announced on Monday that the Republic had won, but said it would reserve ruling on claims of fraud made by the Monarchists. Umberto had contended that he remained as king until the ruling was handed down.

The Royal palace announced an hour and 10 minutes after the plane's departure that the king had left at 14:10 G.M.T. (9:10 a. m., E.S.T.) for Lisbon, where Queen Maria Jose and the four royal children had arrived last week.

ENVOYS WILL TRY TO WRITE
NEW TREATIESEUROPE'S PROBLEMS TO BE TACKLED IN PARIS

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Diplomatic Reporter

Washington, June 13 (AP)—With a solemn "good luck" and a light remark that he might go to Paris himself, President Truman today sped Secretary of State Byrnes off to a new—and probably final—attempt to settle the peace of Europe in full collaboration with Russia.

The remark about a trip to Paris led newsmen to ask press secretary Charles G. Ross whether Mr. Truman really does intend to go there, the implication being that he might meet Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee.

Ross said there was nothing to that idea and that the President was joking.

Quick Agreement Wanted
Senator Connally (D-Tex.), who accompanied Byrnes along with Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), issued a statement to warn any nation or power that now plans to subjugate the rest of the world economically or politically or militarily to look for Hitler's glory in the depths of his bomb-proof shelter.

Connally's statement, issued from his office after the departure, said that unless the Paris meeting produces "a quick and definite agreement" on European peace treaties it should "adjourn and call a peace conference of the 21 nations interested in these treaties."

Connally thus brought into the open a determination of the American delegation to make an all-out try to come to an agreement with the Russians and if unsuccessful to seek other means of working out the peace treaties. Foreign Minister Bevin of Britain declared for such a procedure yesterday.

Byrnes has announced that instead of seeking a 21-nation peace conference directly he would throw the whole peace issue into the United Nations next September. That could split the United Nations, if Russia walked out.

Stop In Newfoundland
The plane, the President's own "Sacred Cow," took off from National airport with the American delegation at 12:26 P. M. (EST). It is scheduled to make a two-hour stop at Stephenville, Newfoundland, for dinner and to deliver the party in Paris by noon tomorrow.

Byrnes, Vandenberg and Connally were brought to the airport by Mr. Truman. It was the first time the chief executive had seen the party off although substantially the same group had gone previously to Paris, Moscow and London to tackle substantially the same problems. Mr. Truman's presence served to emphasize the importance attached to Byrnes' mission.

As Byrnes and the two senators climbed the steps the President waved his white summer hat and called, "Goodbye, Jim, Good Luck." He was not laughing then.

He also wished the others goodbye and called, "good luck to all of you."

Three-Fold Job
Byrnes actually faces a three-fold task in Paris:

1. To obtain if possible great power agreements on draft peace treaties for Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Finland. In this connection the deadlocked is-

Michigan Editors
Hear W. F. Doyle
At Higgins Lake

Higgins Lake, Mich., June 13 (AP)—J. S. Gray, editor and publisher of the Monroe Evening News, was elected chairman of the Michigan Associated Press Editorial Association here today at the editors' first postwar conference.

Dale Stafford, managing editor of the Detroit Free Press, was elected vice chairman and T. R. Smith, chief of the Detroit Bureau of the Associated Press, was re-elected secretary.

W. F. Doyle, a member of the Mackinac Island state park commission, told the delegates that the recent United States supreme court decision upholding rights of newspapers to criticize courts—the Miami Herald case—was "one of the most important incidents in the life of American journalism."

Doyle warned that newspapers must continually be alert in their handling of government and political news and declared that the court's decision strengthened their right to give the people the facts affecting the judiciary without retaliation by the judges.

Bank Robbery Nets
$12,000 In Canada;
Bandits Are Caught

Detroit, June 13 (AP)—Three of four hooded bandits, who grabbed $12,000 loot in a daylight robbery at a Tecumseh, Ont., bank this afternoon, were captured a short time later by Canadian police after a thrilling chase on the Detroit River.

The fourth escaped, but Canadian and American authorities threw out a dragnet for him. Police said the entire loot, contained in a pillow slip, was recovered and also that a brunette had been taken into custody.

Canadian police declined to release the names of the four pending further investigation and no formal charges had been placed against them.

The holdup and the subsequent events were staged in the best "wild west" manner.

The four bandits, brandishing pistols and wearing yellow hoods, burst through the front door of the Tecumseh branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada at 2:45 p. m.

They fired one shot which brought transactions of six bank employees and four customers to an abrupt halt. All 10 were ordered to lie on their stomachs and when one customer, Alec Jackson, 35, a farmer, raised himself up on his hand, one of the bandits trampled on him.

Chased By Employees
Bank Manager William St. Pierre said the main vault was open because it was just 15 minutes before closing time and the bandits helped themselves to bills and silver, which they pushed into the pillow case. They purposely passed about $15,000 in negotiable government bonds.

The bandits then fled in a getaway car, some of the bank employees pursuing them in other vehicles while still other employees summoned police.

Ontario provincial police and Windsor police hurried to the scene, while the Detroit police harbor master division, the border patrol and customs inspectors were put on guard. Main roads on the Canadian side were barricaded and the Detroit-Windsor tunnel and Ambassador bridge were closed to traffic.

The bandits' car was found at Barr harbor and police, utilizing a commandeered motor boat, pursued the bandits who had fled toward Peche Island in a rowboat, powered with an outboard motor.

Then police converged on the island, they found three of the bandits and a woman walking along the beach. A brief search uncovered the pillow slip which had been buried in the sand.

The hoods and dungarees worn by the bandits also were recovered from the sand.

Chief Constable Jerry Desjardins of Tecumseh said the woman apparently had been placed at the beach to watch the gang's getaway boat. He said the fourth suspect apparently did not go to the island.

STRIKE TIES UP
SAGINAW BUSES

Residents Of City Thumb
Rides Or Walk In CIO
Workers Walkout

Saginaw, Mich., June 13 (AP)—A large part of this city's 82,000 inhabitants walked or thumbed rides to work today as bus drivers and mechanics employed by the Saginaw city bus lines tied up public transportation with a strike for a 38-cent hourly wage increase and other contract concessions.

The strike, according to J. H. Shaffner, manager of the bus lines, involved only about 85 workers, but it halted all bus traffic within the city.

The striking workers are members of the CIO United Auto Workers Local 836. Union sources said today there were no plans for further negotiations with the management for a settlement of the dispute. Shaffner said the management had offered a five cent hourly wage increase but this had been rejected by the union in conferences with a committee named last week by Governor Harry F. Kelly to seek a settlement.

Top wages of the workers at present amount to 92 cents an hour.

Accident Is Fatal
To 'Joe Pete' Author

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., June 13 (AP)—Miss Florence McChinchey, 53, associate professor of English at Central Michigan college, who was injured in an automobile accident May 26, died today.

A former resident of Sault Ste. Marie, she was a student of Upper Peninsula Indians and the author of a novel, "Joe Pete," dealing with Indian problems. She received a B. B. and A. M. degrees at the University of Michigan.

QUICK ENDING FORESEEN FOR SHIP WALKOUTHANDFUL OF MINOR
DETAILS BLOCK SETTLEMENT

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Washington, June 13 (AP)—Harry Bridges, president of the CIO Longshoremen, said tonight that the maritime strike was "not settled yet." But the labor department simultaneously reported "satisfactory" progress.

Bridges and Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union, declared over a telephone hookup to a mass meeting in New York's Madison Square Garden that if a strike at midnight tomorrow became necessary "we will win."

It was obvious that the chief obstacle to complete settlement had not been resolved—the demand of Bridges' Pacific coast Longshoremen for one cent an hour more than the government had proposed to give them.

Bridges told the New York rally: "They have said the strike is for subversive reasons. That is a lie."

Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren told reporters that he would meet with Bridges on the longshore issue tomorrow morning.

Asked whether he hoped to have it settled before the afternoon session, he replied: "Sure."

Unions Satisfied
Some union sources indicated that the seagoing unions on both coasts were satisfied with the federal wage and hours proposals, and expressed confidence that the longshore problem would not stand in the way of a complete settlement.

There were signs also—though the department did not confirm them—that conciliators would continue to work with Bridges and his negotiating body until the 2 p. m. conference tomorrow—only 10 hours before the scheduled walkout on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts.

Also speaking to the rally, Curran said:

"Should a national strike occur the responsibility will rest on the ship operators and the various government agencies who were supposed to lend their efforts" in the negotiations.

Bridges promised that negotiators for the Maritime Unions would "be on the job until the last moment," trying to avert a strike. He said that the ship operators had not yet reached satisfactory agreements with the unions allied in the Committee for Maritime Unity (CMU).

Curran announced, "we have cracked the 56-hour work week for seamen, for the first time in the history of the American merchant marine."

"We have without question received a substantial concession," Curran declared.

The government was ready with its own plans for meeting a strike in the event its settlement efforts bogged down completely. President Truman had promised to use the army and navy to run ships, if necessary. Priorities have been worked out for ocean freight.

Formula Not Revealed
J. M. Johnson, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, announced that he had asked Canada to keep the trans-Atlantic highway open to American carriers because of the possibility of an American shipping strike and one already existing among Do-

Butterworth, Film
Comedian, Killed
In Auto Smashup

Hollywood, June 13 (AP)—An automobile wreck on Sunset Boulevard wide but twisting roadway fatally injured movie comedian Charlie Butterworth today. He died as an ambulance pulled into a hospital driveway.

Butterworth made a fortune from characterizing the man who couldn't make up his mind. He was at his best as a vacillating, indecisive sort of follower-of-the-crowd.

The California highway patrol reported his right-hand drive foreign roadster jumped a curb a block from Ciro's, hit a lamp post, catapulted him to the pavement, then piled up against a building. There were no witnesses.

Patrolmen Matt Ryan and Harry Cooper reported the machine apparently was traveling at "excessively high speed." It skidded 180 (correct) feet.

Only 20 of Butterworth's 49 (correct) years had been spent acting. He often said he was forced into the career by a steady diet of chicken patties and canned peas at luncheons which he covered as a newspaperman.

State Solon Faces
Perjury Charge In Bawdy House Graft

Mt. Clemens, Mich., June 13 (AP)—State Senator Ivan A. Johnston, chairman of a legislative committee investigating expenditures of the state's one-man grand jury today was named in a perjury warrant signed by a similar jury probing law enforcement in Macomb county.

The warrant accused Johnston of lying to the Macomb grand jury June 6 in denying that he had accepted graft money from gambling and bawdy house operators while serving as county prosecutor in 1941-42. Arraigned on it a few minutes later the senator demanded examination, date of which will be set Friday, and was released without bond.

Wilbur P. Held, present prosecutor and former assistant to Johnston, was sentenced Wednesday to 30 days in jail for contempt of the grand jury.

Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke of Harrisville, who began sitting as a one-man grand jury more than a month ago, imposed the sentence on Held and signed the warrant against Johnston. He said Held had given "false testimony" about his knowledge of gambling within the county.

Sigler Sued
The warrant against Johnston, first one brought by the grand jury, said he testified he "did not, during his term as prosecutor, receive moneys from operators of any illegal enterprises" when "as a matter of fact, he was paid in excess of $1,000 in payments of $100 or more, during 1941 and 1942."

Kim Sigler, whose ouster as special prosecutor of the state grand jury followed the appointment of Johnston's committee, had been named in a $200,000 damage suit brought by the senator. Johnston said Sigler defamed his character in statements derogatory to the committee and its work.

Johnston is a candidate for reelection to the senate. Sigler is running for governor. Both are Republicans.

Held is free pending an expected appeal to the state supreme court.

CUTS FORECAST IN INCOME TAX

Truman's Efforts To Balance Budget
Commended

Detroit, June 13 (AP)—A reduction in federal income and excise taxes Jan. 1 was predicted here today by Ralph L. Burgess, acting director of the National Association of Manufacturers government finance department.

Burgess was one of the speakers at a regional conference on government finance staged here by the association. Other speakers were H. E. Humphreys, Jr., chairman of the finance committee of the United States Rubber Co., and P. H. Littlefield, vice-president of Canada Dry Gingerale Inc.

Burgess said that the tax reductions he looked for would be slight and that major tax changes will be delayed until 1947.

Expressing encouragement at Pres. Truman's efforts to balance the budget, Burgess said:

"For the first time in 18 years, we have witnessed the treasury department roll up a surplus for two consecutive months."

"It appears now," he continued, "that on the basis of existing legislation and a continued high level of national income, treasury receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year 1947 may show a surplus of two to five billion dollars as compared with the budget estimate of a deficit of three and one-half billions."

Earlier, Humphreys called for a 15 per cent reduction in individual income taxes and a 50 per cent ceiling as part of a program to protect the people's "initiative and thrift."

Ex-GI Is Cleared
Of $1,500,000 Gem
Theft In Germany

Washington, June 13 (AP)—Roy C. Carlton, former GI said by authorities to have participated in the finding of the $1,500,000 Hesse crown jewels hidden in Kronberg Castle, was cleared today of any complicity in their removal to this country.

"Carlton voluntarily submitted to questioning and it has been decided that he should not be further detained," said a war department statement. At the same time the customs bureau announced that he "is not being detained."

The statements thus corrected a war department spokesman who had told reporters yesterday that Carlton had been arrested.

Racing Yacht Sinks

Crew Of Six Saved

Hamilton, Bermuda, June 13 (AP)—The Bermuda Yacht 'Zena,' which left Hamilton Harbor last Sunday to participate in the first postwar race from Newport, R. I., to Bermuda, has sunk in mid-Atlantic, according to a message received today by Mrs. T. N. Dill, wife of the owner.

The message said the crew of six was picked up by the Joshua B. Lippencott, a ship bound for Baltimore.

The 'Zena' was the only Bermuda yacht among the 46 seagoing craft entered for the race scheduled to begin June 29.

MAJOR DEFEAT FOR

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Washington, June 13 (AP)—A rampant senate tonight passed a bill slashing OPA down to a shadow of its wartime power and taking price ceilings off such market-basket items as meat, eggs, milk, butter and chickens.

The bill, which extends the life of the diminished price control agency for one year beyond June 30, amounts to a major defeat for the administration.

It goes now to the house which has passed its own price control bill different in form but just as unacceptable to stabilization officials.

Backers Angry
OPA backers, fighting back angrily as new curbs were voted into the measure one after another, asserted that the legislation would "massacre and crucify" price control, and that the coalition which put it over would be sorry in six months.

Opponents of the agency's powers argued that they were taking necessary steps to free business for production and full-scale reconversion.

Chester Bowles, stabilization chief, and Paul Porter, head of OPA, had nothing to say tonight.

Just before the final vote, Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) told the senate that President Truman had advised he would be compelled to veto the legislation if it came to him in the form passed by the house.

"As to whether the senate bill is better or worse than the house I pass no judgement at this time," Barkley added.

He expressed the hope that a senate-house committee, working on the two bills, may draw up a measure "more satisfactory" than either.

Not to pass the bill, Barkley declared, would mean the end of all price control at the end of this month.

Profits Protected
Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who as a ranking Republican member of the banking committee played a major part in framing the senate bill, expressed conviction that it preserves effective control of "many prices" and an effective safeguard against the inflation he said might threaten if all controls were removed.

The measure as rewritten on the senate floor adds tobacco and petroleum, and their products, to a list of major food items from which price controls would be lifted June 30.

It also forbids OPA to apply any ceiling price to any class of businessmen — from manufacturer through retailer — which does not reflect pre-war profit margins.

The profit policy was extended to apply to all dealers and all items of merchandise, and the oil and tobacco ceiling provisions were inserted, shortly before the final vote.

ATOMIC ENERGY

Laboratories To Get Uranium By-Products

BY FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

Oak Ridge, Tenn., June 13 (AP)—The government swung open the gate tonight to the use of atomic energy for benefiting man instead of killing him.

Radioactive substances produced in the Uranium ovens where the atomic bomb was born will be distributed for the first time to schools, hospitals and laboratories of science and industry, the Army's Manhattan project announced.

The new program opens the way for the widespread use of substances which can be detected even though invisible and which therefore may:

1. Shed new light on the processes of human life, both normal and diseased;

2. Provide new information on animal and plant growth, and on the way the body uses food and medicine;

3. Help mankind further in making certain products and in tapping the resources of nature.

It also is possible, scientists said, that the substances may be used directly to treat disease.

Boys' State Housed

East Lansing, June 13 (AP)—Michigan's future political figures—the 300 youths attending the ninth Wolverine Annual Boys State which opened today at Michigan State college—began their study of state government by nominating "city" officials and delegates to the state convention.

The youths were designated as members of the "Athenian" and "Trojan" parties and were assigned to "cities" and "counties." Election of a "boy" governor Saturday will climax the nine-day convention.

Newly constructed quonset huts at M. S. C. are being used to house 250 of the Boys State delegates while the other 550 are living in Jackson Fieldhouse.

SPANISH ACTION HELD UP IN U. N.

Soviet Delegate Raises
Possibility Of Veto
In Vigorous Attack

BY MAX HARRELSON
New York, June 13 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council postponed action on the controversial Spanish case again today after Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko declared Russia would not support a new proposal to refer the case to the 51-nation general assembly.

The plan, proposed by Australian delegate Herbert V. Evatt, had the support of a majority of the delegates, but Gromyko's vigorous attack raised the possibility that he might invoke the veto when debate is resumed next Monday afternoon.

The Soviet delegate, however, carefully avoided any mention of the veto. In an earlier instance he had been content to express his opposition to a measure by abstaining from voting.

Gromyko objected to a number of points in the report of the council's sub-committee on Spain, but his chief opposition was directed at the proposed action recommended by Evatt in a formal resolution.

Evatt, who had served as chairman of the sub-committee, proposed that the council refer to the general assembly Poland's charges that Franco Spain threatens world peace and that the assembly be asked to call for a world-wide diplomatic break with Spain or take whatever alternative action it believed to be appropriate when it meets in September.

Arabs In Palestine May Arm If Jews Are Not Disarmed

BY CARTER L. DAVIDSON
Bludan, Syria, June 13 (AP)—The Arab League passed secret resolutions threatening to arm Arabs in Palestine unless Britain disarms the Jews, and providing means of halting illegal Jewish immigration "by force if necessary," an authoritative informant said today.

The secret resolutions were adopted along with a 10-point program on Palestine which was announced formally after a five-day meeting. These points included establishment of Palestine committees both in that country and within the Arab League, creation of a special fund for Palestine and measures to halt land sales to Jews.

Abdel Rahman Azam Pasha, league secretary-general, said notes also were being sent to the United States and Britain rejecting all 10 of the recommendations by the British-American committee of inquiry on Palestine.

State General Fund Revenue For Year Over 233 Million

Lansing, June 13 (AP)—Auditor General John D. Morrison estimated today that the total general fund revenue for the 1945-1946 fiscal year will exceed $233,000,000, compared with a total of $202,242,545 last year.

Morrison's estimate was based on the figures for the first 11 months, which totaled $214,056,446, compared with $190,293,979 last year.

Predicts Atomic Power Plants To Operate Industry

Washington—Atomic power plants could be ready to serve industry "within two years of the time the problem is seriously attacked," declares Dr. Leonard I. Katzin, one of the scientists who helped to develop the plutonium bomb that smashed Nagasaki. He makes this forecast in the new issue of Army Ordnance published here.

But, he hastens to add, this is not a prediction that two years from now atomic power plants will be giving industrial power. Before they can be designed and built, he says, "military minds must be convinced that energy from the atomic nucleus means something more than an atomic bomb."

An atomic power plant, states Dr. Katzin, might not look very different from the steam-electric plants we know today. Indeed, it might even be a present-day plant so far as generators and turbines are concerned. Only the coal—or

EDWARD BOWES

Rumson, N. J., June 13 (AP)—Major Edward Bowes, famed figure in the entertainment world for many years, died tonight at his estate here. He would have been 72 years old tomorrow.

There was no announcement of the immediate cause of his death. He had been in failing health recently.

Major Bowes came here three weeks ago from his Waldorf-Astoria hotel apartment in New York City. His niece, Mrs. Harry J. Byrne of Battle Creek, Mich., accompanied him. His sister, Mrs. Ethel Bowes Smith of Santa Cruz flew here a week ago. They were with him when he died.

The last rites of the Catholic church were administered by Francis Cardinal Spellman.

who witnessed the departure, said the king was dressed in a gray business suit and wore a gray hat.

People Cheer
"There were several small groups of people around the big plane. The king visited them all, shaking hands or kissing individuals on the cheek," Green said.

"As the king neared each group of Italian military personnel they came to a smart salute and the king shook hands.

"There was a crowd of people in the background cheering the king and it kept increasing until it numbered 300 or 400. When it got pretty big American military policemen came along and dispersed it. There was no disorder.

"Several in the crowd saying goodbye—men and women alike—had tears in their eyes.

"But the king was smiling most of the time. He was the last person aboard the plane."

Green said Umberto stopped in the doorway and said several words to the little group waiting below.

"Then I went up to him and said, 'Sir, I'm from the Associated Press, and I'd like a picture of you waving goodbye to the crowd.' I had already made several other pictures.

"The king shook hands with me, took off his hat, waved it and smiled broadly. I made the picture. The door closed and the plane wheeled out onto the runway and five minutes later took off."

SHERIFF SLAIN; FARMER SEIZED

Officers Storm House
With Guns And Gas
To Capture Man

Cambridge, Ill., June 13 (AP)—A score of state police and other officers stormed a farm home with machine guns and tear gas for almost an hour today before seizing John Morris, at whose door Sheriff Byron Pierce of Henry county had been shot and killed a few hours earlier.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Fred Swanson said the house caught fire during the battle and that Morris was pulled unhurt from the blazing kitchen. Direct cause of the blaze was not determined, he said. The house was destroyed by the fire.

The deputy said he and Pierce had gone to the Morris home, occupied by John, 60, and his brother, Frank, following a report by neighbors that the livestock had been neglected. Frank, who ordinarily cared for the animals, was missing after the fire.

The deputy said John Morris had been a patient at the East Moline state hospital three times in the last year and that he had been out of the hospital a month.

QUICK ENDING FORESEEN FOR SHIP WALKOUT

minion Maritime Workers. The government, owner of 80 per cent of the 3,100 ships operated by the American merchant marine, stepped firmly into the shipping dispute yesterday after private operators and unions failed to get anywhere in two weeks of dickering.

It did not announce in advance its formula for a settlement. But various persons with an inside track to the negotiations said that, still subject to change, it proposed something like this:

A pay raise of $17.50 a month for sailors. (An ordinary seaman now makes $127.50 a month.) They would continue to work 56 hours a week. Overtime would start at 48 hours instead of 56, so that the men would get eight hours of overtime each week at sea. The overtime rate would be a flat $1 an hour. The standard now is 85 cents on the east coast and 90 cents on the west, beginning after 56 hours.

A raise of 20 per cent, minus a cent an hour, for west coast longshoremen and warehousemen, as recommended last month by a federal factfinding board.

For Investigation
Of U. S. Court Feud

Washington, June 13 (AP)—The House judiciary committee held today it lacked jurisdiction now to investigate the supreme court feud between Justices Jackson and Black but left the door open for action later if circumstances warrant.

Chairman Sumners (D-Tex.) presented to the committee Jackson's statement criticizing Black for sitting in a case in which Black's former law partner was involved. This was the first time the feud had come up for official congressional action.

Sumners told reporters later that the committee's powers are limited to matters of legislation and impeachment. Therefore, he said, there is "no jurisdiction, so far as this committee is concerned, arising out of the letter (cablegram)." He added that there is "no determination at the moment to conduct an investigation."

CEILINGS ARE LIFTED FROM STAPLE FOODS

after the senate rejected, 52 to 17, a complete substitute bill, which would give OPA a simple seven months' extension without modification of its powers.

PROVISIONS LISTED
Washington, June 13 (AP)—Here are the major provisions of the OPA extension measure as passed by the senate, it would:

1. Extend the price agency one year, until June 30, 1947.

2. Wipe out ceilings on all meat, poultry and dairy products by June 30 of this year.

3. Direct the OPA administrator to remove controls on all non-agricultural products not important in relation to business or living costs by the end of the year. This, presumably, would include luxury items and non-essential goods.

4. Order removal of controls over non-agricultural commodities of which the supply exceeds the demand.

5. Establish a three-member price decontrol board with power to order removal of specific price ceilings if it finds appeals justified.

6. Give the secretary of agriculture the responsibility for designating agricultural products in short supply which should be kept under price control, and the authority to issue orders to OPA for lifting ceilings to stimulate production.

7. Instruct OPA upon recommendation of the secretary of agriculture, to remove ceilings on non-essential agricultural products by the end of the year.

8. Cut government subsidies for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, from approximately $2,000,000,000 to $1,100,000,000, with the stipulation that prices must be allowed to increase on commodities from which subsidy support is withdrawn or reduced. Food subsidies would be forbidden after May 1, 1947.

9. Abolish "MAP"—OPA's maximum average price order—which was designed to keep the production of low priced clothing going at prewar rates.

10. Grant a five per cent increase in maximum prices for cotton textiles to manufacturers who have met specified production goals.

11. Prevent OPA from ordering reduction of normal peacetime trade discounts and mark-ups on wholesalers and retailers of "reconversion items" such as automobiles, radios and refrigerators which were in short supply on the civilian market during the war.

12. Force OPA to add increased costs to pre-war prices in fixing manufacturers' price ceilings.

13. Remove controls June 30 on leaf tobacco and petroleum and their products, including cigarettes and gasoline.

14. Require the OPA to obtain consent of the U. S. district attorney before instituting prosecutions against price control violators.

15. Force OPA to allow pre-war profit margins above costs in fixing ceiling at wholesale and retail. This is similar to a provision voted earlier for manufacturers.

CROWN JEWELS WILL GO BACK

Additional Gems Stolen
By American Pair In Germany Recovered

By RUTH COWAN
Washington—(AP)—The crown jewels of the House of Hesse, "liberated" from their wartime hiding place in the depths of Kronberg Castle, eventually will go back to their German owners.

Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, War department public relations chief, disclosed this Army decision.

Parks told a news conference it has not been decided whether the court martial trials of Col. J. W. Durant, his WAC Captain bride, Kathleen Nash Durant, and Maj. David S. Watson, will be held here or in Germany.

An Army report that 106 unset diamonds were recovered by Customs agents after Durant's return from Germany evidently accounted for the last of the missing gems.

Shirley Stephens, Chief of Customs enforcement, told a reporter that Durant turned in 102 diamonds to Customs officers in Chicago last April 22 after an attempted sale of 70 of the gems to a jewelry firm fell through. Stephens said the other four diamonds were turned in by a Chicago man who had undertaken to sell them for Durant.

The WAC's account of the discovery of the treasure cache in the basement of Kronberg Castle was made public by Miller. He said she and her husband, who are being held in the Washington area are free to see anyone, but had been asked not to talk to reporters.

She wished to make it clear that she was "not snooping around" in the castle, where she served as mess officer for an officer's rest camp.

Jackson Dedicates Trees To War Dead

Jackson, June 13 (AP)—The Jackson chapter of the National Home and Garden association will dedicate a park of trees along US-12 west of Jackson in honor of Jackson's war dead at ceremonies here Sunday.

The association sponsored the planting of 2,058 trees and shrubs along the highway from the city limits east 1½ miles and the construction of a memorial flag pole carrying the names of 290 Jackson men killed in World War II. The park will be turned over to the state highway department which will maintain it.

Death Plunge Taken By Nude Couple At Washington Hotel

Washington, June 13 (AP)—The double death plunge of a nearly-nude couple from a ninth floor hotel room two blocks from the White House brought a coroner's probe today to determine whether the woman, Mrs. Dorothy Cox Mahoney, 25, was dead before she fell.

Detective Sergeant Richard Felber said the man, Arthur D. Millison, 36, who leaped to death in the glare of a police searchlight 45 minutes after Mrs. Mahoney, a short story writer, fell to the roof of the hotel dining room, left behind "what you might construe as a suicide note."

Felber also said Millison telephoned his brother, Clyde R. Millison, in the interval between the plunges that "I have disposed of her and now I am going to dispose of myself."

Felber said the note written by Millison, a former garage owner here, "said something to the effect that some women tell a man they love him when they really don't." Mrs. Mahoney's body, clad only in pink panties, landed on the dining room roof shortly after midnight.

Bill DeCorrevont Signed By Lions

Detroit, June 13 (AP)—Purchase of Halfback Bill DeCorrevont from the Washington Redskins, along with the signing of three additional backs, brought the Detroit Lions' player roster to 51 men today, two months prior to the opening of their summer football training camp.

DeCorrevont, highly publicized Chicago high school product who played three years of Big Ten football at Northwestern University, has been playing right halfback for Washington but will be returned to his former tailback post when he reports Aug. 8 for the opening of Detroit's summer camp at Alma, Mich., Coach Charles E. (Gus) Dorais said.

DeCorrevont, now 27 years old and weighing 185 pounds, averaged 4.1 yards each time he carried the ball last season for the Redskins.

While DeCorrevont was having a contract session in Chicago with Fred L. Mandel, Jr., owner of the Lions, Dorais announced here that Elmer

FIRE FIGHTING OFFICIALS HERE

65 Men Representing 23
States Study Forest
Fire Control

An inspection of Michigan and Wisconsin forest fire fighting equipment, its use and maintenance was the principal objective in a field tour which brought about 65 conservation and forestry officials representing 23 states to Escanaba yesterday morning.

Arriving in Escanaba about 10 o'clock from an overnight stop at Blaney Park, the caravan of cars halted for half an hour at Dist. No. 1 headquarters of the conservation department. There the conservation and forestry officials from states as far distant as Georgia and New York, Texas and Oklahoma inspected the headquarters and the fire fighting equipment.

Use of the equipment and its operation was described by John Angulin, district conservation supervisor, and other members of the Michigan conservation department who are members of the field tour party. From Escanaba the group left for Norway, where they enjoyed lunch at Marion park from a field kitchen such as the conservation department uses on forest fire duty.

Demonstrates Equipment
The tour started Monday at Higgins Lake, where the conservation department has a training school. Following demonstrations there, they started north toward the Straits, inspecting conservation regional headquarters, equipment and other installations. Crossing the Straits they witnessed a bulldozer demonstration in a flash area in the vicinity of the Green school fire which occurred in 1936. From Norway the group will enter Wisconsin and proceed to Tomahawk, where the trip will end following a demonstration of fire fighting equipment by the Wisconsin conservation department.

Michigan and Wisconsin are recognized as two states which have effective forest fire fighting organizations, and the field tour was undertaken largely to acquaint officials of other states with their fire fighting organization, methods, and equipment.

H. J. Eberly of the U. S. Forest Service, Washington, D. C., a member of the party, explained also that congressional appropriations are made to states on a matching basis for fire control work. Many states have not provided funds for such service, largely because of the problems in selecting proper equipment and training men in its operation.

65 on Field Tour
Paul Wohlen, U. S. Forest Service supervisor, and Louis Hermet of Escanaba met the tour party here yesterday and assisted in providing information.

State To Send Out Reports On Pollen For Hay Feverites

Lansing—(P)—The State Health department will again collect pollen at 50 stations and report pollen concentrations to Michigan newspapers daily in its seventh annual pollen survey intended to aid hay fever sufferers.

The department said the pollen season last year hits its peak between August 27 and September 8. Pollen counts of 100 or more—the sensitivity mark—are seldom noted before August 15.

The shortest hay fever season in 1945 was at Houghton where the pollen count went above 100 for only one day while the longest season was 28 days in Hillsdale while Lansing and Coldwater had 26-day seasons and Detroit 23 days.

In 1945, the season in the southern Lower Peninsula ranged from 22 to 28 days and the previous year it averaged 44 days.

Back to Isolationism?

DEFEAT of Gov. Dwight Griswold, always a good vote getter, by Senator Hugh A. Butler in the Nebraska Republican primary is interpreted first of all as a political blow to former Governor Stassen and also as a sign that Nebraska and perhaps all the Middle West want to return to isolationism.

Stassen, one of the avowed contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, entered Nebraska to speak in support of Griswold's candidacy because the governor has supported the idea that America must assume a more active role in international affairs. On the other hand, Senator Butler in his first term in the senate had voted against lend-lease, the British loan, and other legislation involving our cooperation with other nations in world affairs.

The outcome of the Nebraska primary was awaited because it was regarded as a test of Governor Stassen's political strength. Whether it will mean Stassen's political eclipse, like the fate that befell Wendell Willkie when he entered the presidential primary in Wisconsin remains to be seen.

Some political observers feel that Stassen made an unwise move when he campaigned for Griswold for voters oftentimes resent interference by outsiders. The fact that Nebraska also has nearly a quarter million voters of German extraction also may have redounded in Senator Butler's favor since he attacked internationalism in his campaign speeches.

It may be that the people of Nebraska and other states are drifting back to isolationism like they did after World War I. The sad state of relations between Russia and the other Allies, our occupation difficulties in Germany and Japan, and other disappointments in America's dealing with other nations could induce many people to desire nothing more to do with internationalism. We must not give up so easily, however. True enough, we cannot achieve international harmony without a series of discouragements, but all these difficulties are nothing compared to the suffering and grief that would come from a third World War. At least, we know that wars cannot be prevented by isolationism.

Challenge to Russia

BRITAIN has bluntly told Russia that the British government will proceed with plans for drafting its own peace treaties in Europe unless the Soviets reach an agreement soon with her war allies for establishing the terms of peace on the continent. This is a radical turn of events in view of agreement made during the war to establish joint treaties, but the Soviets have been abusing that agreement by the utter refusal to see eye to eye with Britain and America on terms for peace with the defeated nations. Continuation of this condition would mean prolonging the state of war that still exists.

It is still desirable to establish joint peace treaties in Europe and there is hope that the British announcement will prod the Russians into an agreement based upon justice without malice. Unfortunately, however, the outlook isn't very promising.

If Britain and the United States cannot agree with Russia on the terms for peace with the defeated nations, there is nothing left to do except white their own peace treaties. The alternative would be to yield to the Russian viewpoint and to accept terms that are inconsistent with the principles of our people.

Cannot Be Helped

FOR some time the financial figures have shown that the Escanaba school district has been losing money in its program of educating the high school children of outside districts. So, it was to be expected that the Escanaba board of education would finally be obliged to charge additional tuition to take care of the extra expense involved.

The Escanaba school district was allowed $113.50 for each student enrolled last year. But the cost of education exceeded this figure by a sum ranging from $30 to $40 a year. Somebody has to bear this extra burden, and it is only logical that it is the responsibility of the taxpayers of the districts where the students reside.

Telegraphic Abuses

THE abuse of the telegraphic privileges by a few United States senators is costing the American public many thousands of dollars. It represents another example of waste that stems from the views of some of the nation's legislators that Uncle Sam's purse is just one big grab bag.

The proposal to limit each senator to 300 free telegrams a day is causing quite a tempest in senate chambers but some restrictive measures must be taken to prevent the abuse of the telegraphic privileges.

The use of form telegraphic replies to hundreds of constituents is one of those abuses. The telegraphic waste is not confined to senators or congressmen, either. Some of the most notorious abuses come from governmental alphabetical agencies. It's about time this waste was stopped and a good place to begin is in the senate.

Sadder But Wiser

THE railroad unions now know what government ownership means to striking unions. It means being in the uncomfortable position of striking against one hundred and forty million people; it means defying the representative of these people—the President of the United States; it means the end of negotiating and compromise—in short, oblivion for the union.

In fact, the whole case against government ownership of any industry became apparent in the railroad strike. As long as an industry is privately owned, controversies between management and labor remain merely disputes between groups of private citizens that can meet each other as equals at the conference table. Government then is a third party, an umpire and arbiter. Its only interest should be fair play all around. But once government operation materializes, private industry disappears from the scene, tension mounts, and the striking group finds itself cast in the role of a public enemy. There is no one to speak for it—thus it was with the railroad unions. When the government took over the rails and officially condemned the strike, that ended the matter. When the unions tried to defend themselves there was no one to listen to them or sympathize with them. They could go back to work or suffer the consequences—they went back to work.

Before the railroad strike, the head of one of the unions, Mr. Whitney, observed that government ownership was greatly to be desired in the railroad industry. It would be interesting to know how he feels about it now. Regardless of how he feels, he has rendered the country a very great service. He furnished an object lesson in socialism that should chill the heart of every American who is sponsoring it in any form.

UNDOING BISMARCK (Detroit Free Press)

What to do with Germany is, of course, the nub and crux of the whole European problem facing the victorious Allies. They have already dabbled with it too long.

The American and British Governments are now reported to have agreed upon the division of Germany into 11 or 12 virtually autonomous states loosely joined under a central federal authority. That points in the proper direction.

Whether Russia and France will accept this plan remains to be seen. The Soviet regime has favored, from Lenin down, a strong but "friendly" Germany—that is, a Communist Germany. The French, who live under the German shadow, are more inclined toward a weak Germany.

The Anglo-American proposal of a federal union of sovereign German states aims to destroy the alliance between the Prussian militarists and the German industrialists, which the unification of Germany effected and which produced two world wars.

The objective is to destroy Germany's power to make war but not to pauperize 70,000,000 Germans. There is no other way of bringing peace and prosperity back to Europe.

MICHIGANICOTEN DROWNINGS (Sault Ste. Marie News)

Sault Ste. Marie was shocked by the drowning of Dr. G. A. Ritchie and three Marinette men Sunday in the Michigicoten River.

Dr. Ritchie, son of the late Dr. George Ritchie, a beloved Sault dentist, was taken in the prime of life. He was 45 years of age and known as a woodsman and ardent fisherman.

His companions on the fishing trip represent three generations of a prominent Marinette family.

The case only serves to illustrate that the frontier still has its dangers. It was the third fatal accident of that nature this spring in Ontario. Chicago and Detroit persons were drowned in the other two. This one struck close to home.

It is to be hoped that no effort is spared in a search for the bodies to assuage to a small degree the deep grief suffered by their loved ones.

HERE'S HOW THEY TALK (Speech Portrait No. 34)

Quincy Howe

Voice, tenor in range. The voice is improperly placed in the back of the mouth, producing a tone quality that is flat and unusual—singers use the term "white" in describing a voice such as Howe's. Resonance is produced in the natural resonance chambers of the oral cavity, the nasal cavity and the sinuses of the skull. A constricted throat prevents the vibrations of the voice from finding their proper sounding boards.

Enunciation, only fair. The faulty placement of the voice causes Howe to mouth his words instead of speaking forward and on the lips.

Style. When Quincy Howe first began newscasting a few years ago, his speech pattern was what is called "Boston- Irish," a manner of speaking that is quite common, in and around the Massachusetts city, though not heard natively elsewhere in the country. Howe also had several individual characteristics which can counter to the standards of radio "neutral" speech. Perhaps you will remember his catch phrase in singing off: "And that's the walled to die" (And that's the world

World Events Analyzed

Washington—Young veterans are lining up before the doors of every university and college in the country. They are taking advantage of the generous and foresighted provisions of the GI Bill of Rights.

That is well and good. It is part of the promise we made to our sons when they went away to war.

But there is a phase of the veterans' training program that is not well and good. It is already subject to serious abuses. If they are not corrected, either by regulation or by changes in the law, they can discredit the entire program and cost the nation hundreds of millions of dollars.

—SODA JERKER TRAINING—

The abuses lie in the so-called on-the-job training. The veteran "trains" to become a soda jerker. His employer gets by with paying him a very small wage while he is "training." If he is unmarried he gets $65 a month subsistence through the Veterans' Administration, $90 if he is married.

Here is another form of the abuse which can grow into a scandal. A veteran returned to his job as vice president of a bank in a Kentucky town. His salary was $3600 a year. He certified that he was in training to be executive vice president, a job that would pay $6000 a year, and on this basis he applied for his subsistence allowance of $90 a month.

Getting $10,000 a year, you can be "in training" for a $20,000 a year job and draw your $90 a month subsistence if you are otherwise eligible for it. In other words there is no limitation on salaries in relation to subsistence grants.

The Veterans' Administration has heard of instances in which lawyers returning to law practice have claimed and been granted subsistence allowance because they made a showing of being "in training" for a different branch of the law. The number of veterans getting on-the-job training is increasing at a geometric ratio. In some instances it is little more than a racket. The connivance of employer and employee is winked at by the state government.

The VA in Washington has issued several orders to field offices calling for supervision to determine whether veterans are pursuing bona fide training courses or whether they are trying to circumvent the law. But the VA's powers are extremely limited under a law so loosely drawn that sound administration is all but impossible.

The number of veterans in training on April 30 was 620,444. This included 478,239 in colleges and other institutions and 142,205 getting on-the-job training. The latter is thus nearly 25 per cent of the total which is three or four times the ratio of three months ago. The percentage getting on-the-job training will increase as more and more veterans are turned away from overcrowded colleges and as word of this easy money gets around. The division of responsibility follows a familiar pattern dictated by states rights congressmen determined to protect standards below the national average. The federal government pays out the money for veterans' subsistence. But the states have sole supervisory authority. Of the educational benefits the law says:

"No department, agency, or officer of the United States, in carrying out the provisions of this part, shall exercise any supervision or control whatsoever over any state educational agency, or state apprenticeship agency or any educational or training institution."

That is a parody of states' rights. The money flows off the federal printing presses and the states have the right to mispend it as they see fit. This works in strange and wondrous ways.

The county commissioners of Montgomery county in Maryland announced that they had approved on-the-job training for four veterans in the county engineer's office. They were to be paid $60 a month by the county and would get $90 in federal subsistence. This, said the announcement proudly, would save the country $360 a month and therefore four more veterans could be hired.

The average veteran is eligible for three and a half to four years of subsistence while he is in college or in training. By April 30 a total of 2,180,930 applications had been filed. It takes only simple arithmetic to show what this can cost.

It helps to feed the mounting flame of inflation. Thereby it reduces the value of the benefit to the veteran who is giving all his time to train himself in a profession or a craft. How the law is being circumvented on the farm and in industry will be shown in tomorrow's column.

JEALOUS TRIBE — John J. Mitchell of Escanaba, stopping over in Minneapolis on a trip to Canada, had time to look around the city. He thought he would look in at the library and see if there was a collection of Indian relics there, as there sometimes is in such places. Collecting Indian artifacts is one of Mitchell's hobbies, ranking somewhere below sailing the Oslo and fishing.

The Minneapolis librarian told him that they had a collection which had recently been stored away for a new display of another character. Inquiries by Mitchell concerning the activities of amateur archaeologists in Minneapolis brought the reply that these Indian arrowheads and stone ax collectors were so much in rivalry they never revealed their activities. Each is alarmed over the possibility that another may discover where he is making his explorations.

CONCRETE TEMPS — Speaking of Minneapolis and collecting recalls the recent incident in Escanaba, when a photographer from Minneapolis came here on assignment—and ended his trip in jail because he is a collector of rare old dishes.

It happened that the man, following his picture-making work, decided to inquire about old dishes in Escanaba homes, and whether they might be purchased. It concerned that after several calls that netted him two old mustard pots and a number of raked eyebrows he was taken in custody by the police and lodged in jail overnight as a suspicious character. Someone apparently thought he was trying to "case" their "joins" prior to a burglary.

The next morning, released from jail, he returned to his Minneapolis home and one of the finest collections of rare old china in America.

FAYETTE INCIDENT — As a result of local enthusiasm over the possibility that Fayette may become a state park, several officials of the parks and recreation division of the Michigan department of conservation have visited there recently. Latest visitor was John I. Rogers, assistant chief of the division, who inspected the site last Monday. Not given to statements that might start unwarranted speculation.

Rogers said only that the project must have further study. It is known, however, that state men are favorably impressed with Fayette's possibilities.

Earlier in the spring one of the visitors was Glenn Gregg, Marquette, a regional director of the parks and recreation division. He returned to Fayette a second time—but after a few minutes there he discreetly withdrew from public view. The reason was that after walking about Fayette, he stooped to tie his shoes. The war years and the clothing shortage had caused him to wear a pair of trousers past their best years, and when he stooped they ripped widely across the back. If you recall seeing anyone walking backward around Fayette a few weeks ago, it was Gregg.

DOUBLEHEADER — Apparently encouraged by the impending removal of price ceilings, a white leghorn hen in the flock owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Anderson of 1411 North 199th street laid two eggs in one day a short time ago. The hen started laying last December, but until the congressional ax began chopping away at the OPA price structure she had been content to lay one-a-day brand. There was a catch in it, however. One of the two eggs she laid in one day had no shell and therefore was wasted effort. A similar situation may develop if inflation scrambles our national economy.

CAKE FOR A BRIDE — Not so amusing was the recent experience of a cafe owner in Escanaba. This month of June has been one of brides, weddings, and wedding parties. At this particular cafe two wedding breakfasts were scheduled, and there was a large tiered cake to center the table for one of the breakfasts.

The bride and bridegroom and their party arrived. The cake was placed on the table, some pieces were cut and served, and the remainder was boxed and given the bride. It was a gala and very happy occasion.

Next morning the second wedding breakfast party appeared, seated themselves, and were served. Diffidently, the bride asked where her cake was. In Convention Hall, Cleveland—In a tremendous demonstration of enthusiasm, and with only votes in opposition, the Republican national convention tonight nominated Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas for the presidency.

More than three million eggs were produced by Delta county chickens during 1934, according to a report made public today by the Census Bureau.

At a June wedding of lovely appointments which took place Thursday afternoon in Manistique, Miss Eleanor Jean Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Carlson of Perkins, became the bride of Otmer John Schuster of Manistique.

Cleveland, O.—Outside the door of his fourth floor room at the Statler hotel, Herbert J. Rushton of Escanaba paused long enough late yesterday to deplore the absence of color in the Republican national convention and to predict the certainty of U. S. Senator Arthur Vandenberg's nomination for the presidency four years hence.

George W. Brown, agent for the Escanaba and Lake Superior railroad, has been appointed to membership on the board of education to fill the vacancy created recently by the resignation of Charles Gunderson, it was reported yesterday.

Investigation into the cause of death of John Granholm, of Ensign, "free lance" prohibition investigator who was found strangling to death in his room in a local hotel four months ago, will be reopened, it was announced by officials yesterday.

The Michigan Turning company here will start to turn out within a week from a new set of lathes, a brand new product—a water-proofed cedar float for gill nets.

Gladstone — A son, John Edward, was born June 9, to Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Bucholtz.

It is reported that after several calls that netted him two old mustard pots and a number of raked eyebrows he was taken in custody by the police and lodged in jail overnight as a suspicious character. Someone apparently thought he was trying to "case" their "joins" prior to a burglary.

The next morning, released from jail, he returned to his Minneapolis home and one of the finest collections of rare old china in America.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—The Senate Foreign Relations committee discovered in a secret session last week that Chairman Tom Connally of Texas and Michigan's GOP Senator Vandenberg didn't seem to have got along too well during their recent peace trips abroad.

The committee was debating the important St. Lawrence Waterway project which for 12 years has gathered dust in a committee pigeonhole.

Connally is opposed to the St. Lawrence Waterway and complained bitterly that the legislation is in the form of an international agreement, requiring a majority of both the House and Senate in order to become law, instead of the two-thirds necessary for a treaty. The gentleman from Texas knew, of course, that he could muster a two-thirds vote to defeat a treaty.

Senator Vandenberg listened to the fumings of his European travelling companion for a few moments, then interrupted.

"You know perfectly well it is proper to present this as an agreement," said the Senator from Michigan. "Furthermore, I can remember more than one occasion when you've brought something in as an agreement because you knew well it would not pass as a treaty."

—SENATOR GEORGE GETS MAD—

At this, Connally hit the ceiling. Months of resentment over being forced to sit in Vandenberg's shadow at Paris and London welled to the surface. Tom accused Vandenberg of insulting him and demanded a retraction. Other members of the committee finally broke in to keep the peace, but the retraction never came.

Peace did not long prevail, however. Another opponent of the waterway lost his temper—Senator George of Georgia.

George demanded more time to study the bill—despite the fact that he has already had weeks to study the present bill and 12 years to make up his mind on the general project. His colleagues considered this unreasonable and he was voted down.

It is indicative of the frayed nerves of Senate members these days that the usually reserved George then lost his temper completely and refused to vote on the bill at all.

Instead he launched into an attack upon the state department for drafting the agreement with Canada.

"It's about time the state department stopped going around agreeing to dozens of things the Congress may never want to do," exploded the gentleman from Georgia.

"The time is coming," he continued. "When the question of isolation must be redefined. I am tired of a policy which requires large portions of our country to be given away to others."

George then asked to be excused and stalked angrily from the room.

NOTE—Every president in recent years has supported the St. Lawrence Waterway, including not only Franklin Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover, but Republican Nominee Governor Dewey. For several years, also, it was planned to pass the St. Lawrence Waterway as an agreement requiring a majority vote rather than as a treaty.

—CAPITAL CHAFF—

Secretary of the Treasury Vinson didn't know definitely that the President had decided to make him chief justice until 10 minutes before the announcement. . . Vinson did his best to prevent John Snyder from being appointed head of the International Bank, and argued so hard on this that his ammunition was all gone to block Snyder's appointment as secretary of the treasury. . . Snyder literally pleaded with O. Max Gardner to remain as under secretary of the treasury. He also asked Gardner to persuade other treasury officials to remain. Gardner worked on it (his last week-end, with no success. . . The power lobby had a big day last week when the Senate Appropriations committee cracked down on cheap federal power for the people of Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma. The man who led the fight against cheap power was Senator Elmer Thomas, who campaigned in Oklahoma in 1944 on the claim that he had never dealt with a lobbyist in Washington. This year, Thomas has been so busy cocktailing with lobbyists and speculating on the cotton market that he doesn't know what's going on in his own state—among other things that he won't be released.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Now that George Allen and John Snyder have been moved out of the White House, a new power in the President's entourage is handsome Commander Clark M. Clifford, also from St. Louis. Clifford now is even doing some of Truman's ghost-writing. . . Congressmen turned thumbs down on brilliant Claude Bowers, U. S. Ambassador to Chile, as speaker for the Roosevelt memorial session of the House and Senate July 1. Instead Ambassador John Winant, a Republican, will pay tribute to Roosevelt. Bowers is a Democrat. . . George Allen, who is out to become the thin man of the administration, has already lost 14 pounds. . . Stuart Berkshire, head of the alcohol tax unit, is being named assistant director of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. . . Richard Saxey of the Federal Power commission leaves for Europe soon to work on reparations problems. . . The Hungarian Prime Minister, a leading Soviet sympathizer, will visit Washington before the end of the month. . . French Communists, working in a united front with French capitalists, will soon announce a strikeless drive for higher wages.

To the Editor:

I see in your columns they are having quite a time with the dogs around. Being a subscriber to the Press I'd like to give my opinion on that. I don't see how a dog could cause any more trouble than a good bunch of kids could. I have a garden unfenced and several dogs in this neighborhood, but any time I look out of my back window it isn't a dog I see but five or six kids running in every direction. If everybody was ordered to keep their children in their own yards where, I warrant you, they won't walk on their mother's garden, as well as the dogs tied up, and this matter gives consideration for the benefit of all of us "seedy fellows" I think we'll all reap a wonderful harvest. Thank you.

John March Busy With Horses Now

Menominee.—John March, one of the leading race horse stable owners in the Midwest, called on his last remaining business, the Walsh Sand & Gravel company, on one of his regular visits to Menominee.

"All my business is gone now, except this one," March said, "and I can't even sell it. I tried to sell it some time ago, but there are no takers."

March passes the time in his retirement with his beloved horses—he has 61 in the March stables at Lincoln Fields in Chicago—but the one that gets most of his attention is Precoccupy, a two-year-old that has come a long way and is being groomed for next year's triple—the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Interested in horses for 25 years, it was only in the last five years that March has moved into the big money on the nation's tracks. Precoccupy was the first. Last year it was Occupation and this year it is Precoccupy. All three are by the same brood mare, Miss Bunting.

who died three months ago at 16 years. Bulldog was the sire of Precoccupy.

Owner of the former Wisconsin-Michigan Railroad, March has an estate in Luxembourg which escaped war damage. He has a sister living there whom he visited between his last visit here last September and a winter vacation in Florida, where he raced his horses.

Silicone oils, suitable for use as hydraulic fluids in aircraft systems, will flow at 121 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

EXPECT HEAVY PRIMARY VOTE

Contests On Both Demo
And GOP Ballots To Arouse Interest

Contests for several state and county offices have aroused interest among voters in the primary election to be held Tuesday, June 18, in which there will be nominated Republican and Democratic candidates for the following offices:

BROADCAST RETURNS

Up-to-the-minute returns of the primary election will be broadcast from the Escanaba Daily Press news room Tuesday night over Station WDEC. Regularly scheduled programs will be interrupted for five-minute periods beginning at 8 p. m.

U. S. senator, governor, lieutenant governor, congressman, state senator, state representative, prosecuting attorney, sheriff, county treasurer, drain commissioner, county coroner, and county surveyor. The candidates nominated will have their names on party ballots for the general election November 5.

In the state, particular interest is centered in the Republican and Democratic contests for the nomination for governor. The Republicans have four candidates in the field, and the Democrats two. The Republicans also have four candidates in the race for lieutenant governor, while the Democrat candidate is unopposed for the nomination.

Democratic Contests

There is no contest in the senatorial and congressional brackets on either ticket, but for state senator from the 30th district the Republicans have three candidates—Harry Buchanan, Rapid River; William A. Ellsworth, St. Ignace; and George Girschbach, incumbent, of Sault Ste. Marie. The Democrats have no candidate for state senator.

Highlighting the primary in the county for the Democrats are three contests for county offices. These are for the offices of representative in the state legislature, for sheriff, and for county coroner. The three candidates for representative are Myron W. Legg, of Escanaba, son of Peter Legg, incumbent, who is not a candidate for reelection; Violet Patterson (Mrs. Walter Patterson) of Perkins; and Arnold T. Rossow of Brampton.

There are two Democrats seeking the nomination for sheriff. They are William E. Miron, incumbent, and Maurice Pratt of Escanaba.

Jensen Runs On Slips

Third nomination contest on the Democratic ticket is for the office of county coroner. There are three candidates, of which two will be nominated. The candidates are Otto S. Hult of Gladstone, Thomas A. McInerney and Kevill Murphy of Escanaba.

Democratic candidates for county clerk, county treasurer and prosecuting attorney are unopposed for nomination. All Republican county candidates are unopposed on their own ticket, but special interest attaches to the efforts of Roy A. Jensen of Escanaba to obtain the nomination for representative in the state legislature. Failure to file an affidavit of identification within the three-day period required by law made it impossible for Jensen's name to appear on the primary ballot. To be nominated Jensen must now run as a slip candidate and receive 15 percent of the highest vote for any candidate on the Republican ticket.

Voters will receive a third ballot—the non-partisan—on which to vote their choice of candidates for the circuit court commissioner nomination. Two are nominated

Re-Registration Of School Electors Will Be Made Here On June 27-28, July 11-12

The Escanaba board of education at a meeting this week adopted a resolution providing for a complete re-registration of all school electors here on Thursday and Friday, June 27 and 28, and on Thursday and Friday, July 11 and 12 at the office of school superintendent John A. Lemmer.

It is provided by law that re-registration may be made during any even numbered year and the present list of electors has not been completely corrected for 20 years.

School electors must be citizens of the United States, at least 21 years of age, must be residents of the state of Michigan for six months and of the school district for 20 days prior to any special or regular election.

Only upon questions involving and two elected. John G. Erickson and Wheaton L. Strom are unopposed on the ballot for nomination.

the direct expenditure of public money or the issue of bonds must school electors be owners of property or the husband or wife of an owner of property assessed for school taxes.

Although registrations will continue to be made each year prior to school elections as required by law, school officials are asking all qualified voters to re-register on one of the days indicated in order to bring files up to date.

SET FINAL TAX RATES IN DELTA

Millage Allocated To Townships, Schools By Commission

Following hearings before the Delta county tax allocation commission at the court house, final tax rates for the townships and the township school districts have been finally established for 1945, it was announced yesterday by County Clerk J. Theodore Ohlen, clerk of the commission. County School Commissioner C. P. Titus is chairman of the six-man commission.

In an action unprecedented in the county since the 15-mill tax limitation law went into effect, 11 of the county's 14 townships were not granted any millage rate on which to levy taxes for township purposes. This was done by the commission following studies of the township budgets which revealed they had sufficient reserves or funds from other sources to meet their budgets for the coming year.

Township schools received correspondingly higher allocations, although Chairman Titus reported that the school rate was still below needs for most of the districts.

The final rates are as follows:

County—6.4 mills.

Escanaba—Gladstone schools—8.5 mills.

Cities and villages—1 mill.

For the townships and township schools the final millage rate is as follows:

Unit	Township Schools
Baldwin .....	0.8
Bark River .....	1.1
Bay de Noc .....	0.8
Brampton .....	0.8
Cornell .....	0.8
Ensign .....	0.8
Escanaba .....	0.8
Fairbanks .....	0.8
For River .....	0.8
Garden .....	0.8
Garden village .....	0.1
Maple Ridge .....	1.6
Maple Ridge .....	0.8
Nahma .....	0.9
Wells .....	0.6
Wells fractional .....	7.6

In addition to the above, Baldwin township schools will levy 7 mills for debt service, and Maple Ridge schools 5 mills for debt service. Escanaba township schools will levy 5 mills for a building and site sinking fund.

Truman's "Pantry" Cabinet Denounced By Harold L. Ickes

Chicago, (P)—Harold L. Ickes denounced some of President Truman's advisers as a "Pantry Cabinet" of "Little and Self Seeking Men" but added he had not "Foreclosed Myself" from supporting Mr. Truman in 1948.

"I have not foreclosed myself from supporting President Truman in 1948 if, and after consideration then of the candidates and platforms upon which they shall run, I shall conclude that he is the better choice," he said. "I can easily think of possible Republican nominees who would persuade me to be an enthusiastic supporter of Mr. Truman."

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Chicago branch of the Independent Citizens committee of the arts, sciences and professions, he said he was forced to the conclusion that Mr. Truman relies on "a shadowy group of men, the composition of which is neither constant nor certainly known."

"Of course, other presidents have had their 'kitchen cabinets' but President Truman is the only one to have one that might be called a 'pantry cabinet' because those who compose it seemed to have a predilection for the political refrigerator."

Young Delinquents Placed In Hands Of Guidance Institute

The institute assumes responsibility for the youngsters, each of whom will be placed with families outside the city, at least for a period of one year.

SAFE VACATION RULES OUTLINED

Lansing—(P)—Vacationers were warned by Dr. William Dekleine, State Health Commissioner, to take special precautions for their health and safety as they crowd resort areas of the state for what is expected to be the largest year in Michigan tourist history. The Health Department listed the following rules for a safe vacation:

1—Use drinking water from municipal supplies or from health department approved water sources. Stream or spring water is not necessarily safe because it is clear. Water that is not approved may be made safe by boiling for 10 minutes, the department suggests.

2—Milk should be pasteurized and come from a dairy licensed by the health department. Raw milk may be pasteurized by bringing to a boil and cooling immediately.

3—Trailer camps, organized camping grounds and state parks are licensed and approved as safe accommodations. Cabin camps and tourist homes are not under the jurisdiction of any state agency but local health departments inspect their sanitary facilities.

4—Choose a safe beach and don't swim alone, don't swim too far out and don't dive in shallow water.

5—Avoid sewage-contaminated streams and lakes. Vegetation in shallow water near the shoreline is caused by fertilization in the water which is usually caused by a pollution from sewage, the department warns.

6—That coat of tan can't be acquired at one sunning. Prevent a serious case of sunburn by a gradual exposure to the sun.

7—Avoid over-eating. Eat lots of fresh fruits and vegetables. Choose clean eating places when dining out.

8—Take it easy, rest and have fun.

Vets: 'Tenshun-1-C Means You're A Civilian Again

World War II veterans who have received registration notices from the Delta county draft board indicating that they have been placed in a 1-C category are admonished by officials that the board has no further designs on them. The 1-C classification means that the veteran is completely out of the clutches of the military.

More than a few puzzled ex-servicemen have interpreted the notification as a summons similar to that which began with the deceptively pleasant "Greetings. Your friends and neighbors have selected you, Etc."

The card is merely proof that the veteran has served, that the draft board knows it even if some of his friends and neighbors don't and that he is entitled to all the privileges normally accorded to adult civilians.

Cook frozen vegetables in the smallest possible amount of boiling water. Never let them thaw before you pop them in the cooking water. You lose vitamins if you do.

Enjoy fresh fruit pies in season but be economical with pastry. Make one-crust pies and use every scrap of pastry. Cut small pieces in fancy shapes, bake on a cookie sheet and lay on top of the fruit filling.

Eggs preserved in water-glass are satisfactory for scrambling, omelets and other cooking and baking but are less satisfactory for poaching, frying or soft-cooking in the shell.

Sault Locks Will Be Open To Public

The Sault Locks will be open to the public within a week.

That was the word from Rep. Fred Bradley to John R. Merfield, secretary of the Sault Chamber of Commerce.

Rep. Bradley's statement was made on authority from Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, chief of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army, at Washington.

Rep. Bradley said he had assurance from Gen. Wheeler that the order for the lock opening would be issued within a week.

The locks were closed to the public during the war, but for 90 years before that the citizens of the country had free and unhampered access to all parts of the government operation.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers under the direction of Col. Allison Miller, former district engineer, Col. R. Riani, present district engineer, and Jack E. Harns, engineer in charge of the locks, has gone to considerable pains to make the lock grounds attractive, thus making the government park and locks all the more desirable.

Radar Being Developed For Civilian Air Safety

Radar as a weapon is depicted above in Army Air Materiel Command diagram, showing cut-away view of television and remote control equipment installed in AAF GB-4 Glider Bomb

By JAMES E. HELBERT

Wright Field, Dayton, O. (NEA)—Radar may soon end the danger of commercial aircraft crashing into a New York skyscraper or a California mountainside.

Radar for civilian planes has been a long time coming, but the Army Air Force researchers here now have developed a set small enough and light enough to be used commercially.

Army fliers throughout the war relied on radar to guide them through and around storms and to give them an accurate picture of the land below and ahead of their course. But AAF radar has been too big and too cumbersome for civilian craft. Consider these figures:

At the start of World War II, the standard radar used by the Army Air Forces weighed 461 pounds and occupied 34 cubic feet. There is no place on a civilian air liner for such a set.

Air Materiel Command scientists have reduced the size of that same search radar to a nine cubic foot unit, weighing 125 pounds.

While the Army continually seeks new methods of destruction and defense, here is a case where a military development will benefit civilians by greatly reducing the hazards of flying at night, passing through storm and clouds and navigating over mountains and through passes.

Predicts Weather, Too

Much of this latest radar and electronic work has been done at AMC headquarters at Wright Field, the AAF's leading test and trial field. Some was developed at the big AMC laboratories in Red Bank, N. J.

Brig. Gen. Tom C. Rives, chief of the electronic subdivision at Wright Field, calls the new radar, technically known as AN/APS-10 or "Aps-10," the simplest and most versatile radar yet devised for use by the Army Air Forces.

Five control dials—fewer gadgets than you find facing you in the average automobile—enable the pilot to navigate with AN/APS-10 without a regular navigator and without reference to other navigational instruments.

This means that the pilot can safely leave his established course and fly outside regular airways in case bad weather or other troubles plague him.

Equally important is the use of "Aps-10" in predicting weather conditions.

The new mechanical weather man "sees" 25 to 35 miles into the roughest sort of weather. What it finds is portrayed in a sharp picture of squall lines, thunderstorms, and warnings of ice-forming clouds ahead.

AN/APS-10 also can be used with ground radar beacons guiding lost planes home. Mountains, rivers, valleys and cities show up on its scope clearly at a range of 50 miles.

Radar, thanks to the work of the AAF's Materiel Command, gives promise of solving just about all aerial navigation problems. Meanwhile, some experts feel that the terrifying aspects of the atomic bomb may, in itself, out-the earth's surface. They want to be able to destroy such missiles long before the missiles, what ever they may be, destroy American cities and production centers.

However, the Army isn't concentrating all its efforts on defense. It has a few jet propelled and similar high-speed remote controlled bombs of its own that it is working on.

A number of the new theories and devices which have been originated here will get their initial peace-time tests during the atomic bomb experiments at Bikini Atoll this summer.

"The abrupt end of World War II left us with many technical puzzles resulting from new and radical concepts of wartime aviation," says Gen. Rives.

AMC, Army Ordnance, and other branches hope this summer to find out if our radar can spot a flying bomb or rocket in the stratosphere soon enough to destroy it before it can wipe out Washington, Chicago, San Francisco, or any other American city.

But the experts leave you with this stiffening thought: "Suppose we do not spot the first bomb and the second and the tenth? Eventually one may get through. And one is all it takes."

Northern Ocean Routes Possible

Washington—The "Great Circle" route from Seattle to Tokyo, which Army transports will fly on scheduled trips soon, is but one of many Arctic or near-Arctic routes that will be followed widely in the future by both commercial and military planes. Distance-saving is the reason; war-developed aircraft equipment makes these northern trans-oceanic flights possible.

The announced Army short route to Japan skirts the southern bulge of the Aleutian islands that stretch from Alaska mainland to Siberian Kamchatka peninsula. Between Seattle and Tokyo planes will make one stop, at Adak, a halfway point. This route is a little more than 4,700 miles, while the present regular route from California to Japan by way of Hawaii and Guam is nearly 8,000 miles.

From New York to Tokyo, following the Great Circle route, planes would travel about 6,700 miles, and would pass over northern Alaska, eastern Siberia and Kamchatka, and the Kurile Islands. From Chicago planes would cross Alaska about at the central college city of Fairbanks.

Uniforms for soldiers first appeared in the seventeenth century.

Communists Trying To Cut China In Two, Official Says

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, June 12. (AP)—Minister of Information Peng Hsueh-pei tonight accused the Chinese Communists of "trying to cut China in two."

He declared the Communists were utilizing a period of peace negotiations—during the current 15-day truce—to launch military surprise attacks, and asserted they were intensifying their offensive in East China with the aim of gaining full control of strategic Shantung province.

In line with this aggressive aim, he said, Red forces were now massing in Shantung for attacks on Tsinan and Tsingtao.

(Tsingtao is the summer base of the U. S. Seventh fleet, and the U. S. Marine garrison there was within a few miles of Red troops reported advancing on the town.) Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Manchurian field commander sent an ultimatum to the Communists insisting that they cease attacks on government forces in the northeast and withdraw from Lafachan immediately.

Information Minister Peng denied that government forces were attacking in East China, as reported by Communist sources. Government troops, he said, were instructed only to defend their positions.

"The Moon and Sixpence" into the best-seller list. Critics generally agree that this is not so good a novel as the earlier one, but the reading public often buys books in mass formation. When "The Moon and Sixpence" came out, it had become the fashion to read Maugham, and thousands who had remained indifferent to the better earlier novel welcomed the poorer newer book as a work of art.

But the reflex effect on "Of Human Bondage" has been great. After 30 years it is still a satisfactory property, from the publisher's point of view, and Maugham's name as a novelist has become associated with it more closely than with any of the other 25 or 30 books he has written. He will go down in the history of the English novel as the author of "Of Human Bondage."

So it is appropriate that the American people, who welcomed him as an unknown, shall receive the manuscript of his most significant novel.

Library Adventure

By Arnold Mulder

W. Somerset Maugham has presented the manuscript of his first success, "Of Human Bondage," to the Library of Congress as a gift to the American people. And he means it literally as a gift to all of us, because he feels that we, the American people, turned the tide in his literary career by investing our dollars in "Of Human Bondage."

It was in 1915 that the novel was published in England. Maugham had written a few other novels, but they had attracted comparatively little attention. It was in the days when John Galsworthy and Arnold Bennett and Joseph Conrad and H. G. Wells were at the height of their popularity in the United States. The American people could hardly be expected to notice yet one more Englishman, especially since the English themselves had given him but scant attention.

The first American of note who recognized the quality of "Of Human Bondage" was Theodore Dreiser. He took pains to try to rouse the interest of the American people in this new book by an unknown British novelist. But Dreiser himself, in 1915, was struggling to be heard. Most Americans did not know that he existed, and there were many more who thought that he ought to be suppressed because he dared to go counter to what was then regarded as good taste. In any event his championship of Maugham probably did the latter more harm than good with the American people during that first year of World War I, when we were considerably more ill-lit than we are now. Maugham is not a novelist for the romantic or the sentimental.

In a year or two "Of Human Bondage" appeared to be almost completely forgotten. (These facts are taken from Maugham's address in his presentation of his manuscript to the Library of Congress.) Then something happened quite suddenly and quite unaccountably. The American people began to buy the novel, in spite of the fact that World War I was claiming their attention. To this day Maugham fails to understand why the book began to sell. Soon the columnists of the time took up the cry that a great new novel had appeared in England. Such writers as Alexander Woolcott, Heyward Brown and Franklin P. Adams appointed themselves as unofficial press agents for the novel, and before Maugham understood what was happening, the book had turned into a satisfactory seller, if not a big seller.

The interest of the American people was caught just in time to help boost Maugham's next book,

Cook frozen vegetables in the smallest possible amount of boiling water. Never let them thaw before you pop them in the cooking water. You lose vitamins if you do.

The camporee will close during the afternoon of Saturday, following the general scheduled activities. A campfire will be held Friday evening, with all units taking part. The public is cordially invited to the campfire.

Sault Locks Will Be Open To Public

The Sault Locks will be open to the public within a week. That was the word from Rep. Fred Bradley to John R. Merrifield, secretary of the Sault Chamber of Commerce.

Rep. Bradley's statement was made on authority from Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, chief of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army, at Washington.

Rep. Bradley said he had assurance from Gen. Wheeler that the order for the lock opening would be issued within a week.

The locks were closed to the public during the war, but for 90 years before then the citizens of the country had free and unhampered access to all parts of the government operation.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers under the direction of Col. Allison Miller, former district engineer, Col. R. Riani, present district engineer, and Jack E. Harns, engineer in charge of the locks, has gone to considerable pains to make the lock grounds attractive, thus making the government park and locks all the more desirable.

Turkey Gets Hot, Firemen Get Bird

Alton, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Frenz's customers couldn't complain about her roast turkey being too rare. She placed it in her cafe oven one evening shortly before closing time. Several hours later firemen answered a patrolman's urgent summons, made their way through the cafe's smoke-filled interior and removed the "well done" bird.

Radar Being Developed For Civilian Air Safety

Radar as a weapon is depicted above in Army Air Materiel Command diagram, showing cut-away view of television and remote control equipment installed in AAF GB-4 Glide Bomb

By JAMES E. HELBERT

Wright Field, Dayton, O. (NEA)—Radar may soon end the danger of commercial aircraft crashing into a New York skyscraper or a California mountainside.

Radar for civilian planes has been a long time coming, but the Army Air Force researchers here now have developed a set small enough and light enough to be used commercially.

Army fliers throughout the war relied on radar to guide them through and around storms and to give them an accurate picture of the land below and ahead of their course. But AAF radar has been too big and too cumbersome for civilian craft. Consider these figures:

At the start of World War II, the standard radar used by the Army Air Forces weighed 461 pounds and occupied 34 cubic feet. There is no place on a civilian airliner for such a set.

Air Materiel Command scientists have reduced the size of that same search radar to a nine cubic foot unit, weighing 125 pounds.

While the Army continually seeks new methods of destruction and defense, here is a case where a military development will benefit civilians by greatly reducing the hazards of flying at night, passing through storm and clouds and navigating over mountains and through passes.

Predicts Weather, Too

Much of this latest radar and electronic work has been done at AMC headquarters at Wright Field, the AAF's leading test and trial field. Some was developed at the big AMC laboratories in Red Bank, N. J.

Big Gen. Tom C. Rives, chief of the electronic subdivision at Wright Field, calls the new radar, technically known as AN/APS-10 or "Aps-10," the simplest and most versatile radar yet devised for use by the Army Air Forces.

Five control dials—fewer gadgets than you find facing you in the average automobile—enable the pilot to navigate with AN/APS-10 without a regular navigator and without reference to other navigational instruments.

This means that the pilot can safely leave his established course and fly outside regular airways in case bad weather or other troubles plague him.

Equally important is the use of "Aps-10" in predicting weather conditions.

The new mechanical weather man "sees" 25 to 35 miles into the roughest sort of weather. What it finds is portrayed in a sharp picture of squall lines, thunderstorms, and warnings of ice-forming clouds ahead.

AN/APS-10 also can be used with ground radar beacons guiding lost planes home. Mountains, rivers, valleys and cities show up on its scope clearly at a range of 50 miles.

Radar, thanks to the work of the AAF's Materiel Command, gives promise of solving just about all aerial navigation problems.

Meanwhile, some experts feel that the terrifying aspects of the atomic bomb may, in itself, outlaw war forever. But civilian and military scientists at Wright Field aren't taking any chances, because military chiefs once said the same of the long bow, gun powder, and poison gas.

At this "brain center" and "test tube" of the Army Air Force research program, they are hard at work on a defense that will protect the United States from its enemies, whether they come by plane or rocket, and whether their destructive force is concentrated in atomic energy or just old-fashioned high explosives.

Air Materiel Command of the AAF her is bossed by Lt. Gen. Nathan S. Twining, who commanded the 20th Air Force during the final phases of the war with Japan and who knows first hand what atomic war can mean.

If the air force wants a new super-sonic fighter plane, or a monkey wrench for aircraft mechanics, AMC will develop, test and finally accept or reject them for the air force as a whole.

Drastic Changes
But much of the work these days is concentrated on new theories and devices connected with radar, radio, electronics and the high speed wars that may or may not come in the future. Recent advances in plane designs and development of rockets and jet-driven missiles call for drastic changes in radar and radio systems.

Army air researchers hope to find something that will make it possible to track and control missiles travelling at 6,000 miles an hour at altitudes up to 100 above the earth's surface. They want to be able to destroy such missiles long before the missiles, what ever they may be, destroy American cities and production centers.

However, the Army isn't concentrating all its efforts on defense. It has a few jet propelled and similar high-speed remote controlled bombs of its own that it is working on.

A number of the new theories and devices which have been originated here will get their initial peace-time tests during the atomic bomb experiments at Bikini Atoll this summer.

"The abrupt end of World War II left us with many technical puzzles resulting from new and radical concepts of wartime aviation," says Gen. Rives.

AMC, Army Ordnance, and other branches hope this summer to find out if our radar can spot a flying bomb or rocket in the stratosphere soon enough to destroy it before it can wipe out Washington, Chicago, San Francisco, or any other American city.

But the experts leave you with this stiffening thought: "Suppose we do not spot the first bomb and the second and the tenth? Eventually one may get through. And one is all it takes."

Northern Ocean Routes Possible

Washington—The "Great Circle" route from Seattle to Tokyo, which Army transports will fly on scheduled trips soon, is but one of many Arctic or near-Arctic routes that will be followed widely in the future by both commercial and military planes. Distance-saving is the reason; war-developed aircraft equipment makes these northern trans-oceanic flights possible.

The announced Army short route to Japan skirts the southern central bulge of the Aleutian islands that stretch from Alaska mainland to Siberian Kamchatka peninsula. Between Seattle and Tokyo planes will make one stop, at Adak, a halfway point. This route is a little more than 4,700 miles, while the present regular route from California to Japan by way of Hawaii and Guam is nearly 8,000 miles.

From New York to Tokyo, following the Great Circle route, planes would travel about 6,700 miles, and would pass over northern Alaska, eastern Siberia and Kamchatka, and the Kurile Islands. From Chicago planes would cross Alaska about at the central college city of Fairbanks.

Uniforms for soldiers first appeared in the seventeenth century.

Library Adventure

By Arnold Mulder

W. Somerset Maugham has presented the manuscript of his first success, "Of Human Bondage," to the Library of Congress as a gift to the American people. And he means it literally as a gift to all of us, because he feels that we, the American people, turned the tide in his writing career by investing our dollars in "Of Human Bondage."

It was in 1915 that the novel was published in England. Maugham had written a few other novels, but they had attracted comparatively little attention. It was in the days when John Galsworthy and Arnold Bennett and Joseph Conrad and H. G. Wells were at the height of their popularity in the United States. The American people could hardly be expected to notice yet one more Englishman, especially since the English themselves had given him but scant attention.

The first American of note who recognized the quality of "Of Human Bondage" was Theodore Dreiser. He took pains to try to rouse the interest of the American people in this new book by an unknown British novelist. But Dreiser himself, in 1915, was struggling to be heard. Most Americans did not know that he existed, and there were many more who thought that he ought to be suppressed because he dared to go counter to what was then regarded as good taste. In any event his championship of Maugham probably did the latter more harm than good with the American people during that first year of World War I, when we were considerably more ill-lusioned than we are now. Maugham is not a novelist for the romantic or the sentimental.

In a year or two "Of Human Bondage" appeared to be almost completely forgotten. (These facts are taken from Maugham's address, delivered on the occasion of his presentation of his manuscript to the Library of Congress.) Then something happened quite suddenly and quite unaccountably. The American people began to buy the novel, in spite of the fact that World War I was claiming their attention. To this day Maugham fails to understand why the book began to sell. Soon the columnists of the time took up the cry that a great new novel had appeared in England. Such writers as Alexander Woolcott, Heyward Brown and Franklin P. Adams appointed themselves as unofficial press agents for the novel, and before Maugham understood what was happening, the book had turned into a satisfactory seller; if not a big seller.

The interest of the American people was caught just in time to help boost Maugham's next book,

Communists Trying To Cut China In Two, Official Says

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, June 12. (AP)—Minister of Information Peng Hsueh-Pei tonight accused the Chinese Communists of "trying to cut China in two."

He declared the Communists were utilizing a period of peace negotiations—during the current 15-day truce—to launch military surprise attacks, and asserted they were intensifying their offensive in East China with the aim of gaining full control of strategic Shantung province.

In line with this aggressive aim, he said, Red forces were now massing in Shantung for attacks on Tsinan and Tsingtao.

(Tsingtao is the summer base of the U. S. Seventh fleet, and the U. S. Marine garrison there was within a few miles of Red troops reported advancing on the town.) Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Manchurian field commander sent an ultimatum to the Communists insisting that they cease attacks on government forces in the northeast and withdraw from Lafachan immediately.

Information Minister Peng denied that government forces were attacking in East China, as reported by Communist sources. Government troops, he said, were instructed only to defend their positions.

Try a For Rent Ad today.

"The Moon and Sixpence," into the best-seller list. Critics generally agree that this is not so good a novel as the earlier one, but the reading public often buys books in mass formation. When "The Moon and Sixpence" came out, it had become the fashion to read Maugham, and thousands who had remained indifferent to the better earlier novel welcomed the poorer newer book as a work of art.

But the reflex effect on "Of Human Bondage" has been great. After 30 years it is still a satisfactory property, from the publisher's point of view, and Maugham's name as a novelist has become associated with it more closely than with any of the other 25 or 30 books he has written. He will go down in the history of the English novel as the author of "Of Human Bondage."

So it is appropriate that the American people, who welcomed him as an unknown, shall receive the manuscript of his most significant novel.

"Souvenir Firearms Must Be Registered" Says Robert Krause

Munising—Robert S. Krause, Investigator in Charge, United States Internal Revenue Service, Alcohol Tax Unit, Detroit, explained to members of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan Association of Law Enforcement officers in their meeting at the Beach Inn, Munising, Thursday noon, the need for full cooperation in handling the many thousands of foreign guns which were permitted to be brought into the country by members of the armed forces as souvenirs.

"Many accidents and murders have already been experienced, and we can look for the number to increase," he told them. "We can try and control this by co-operating in trying to get the returned serviceman or his relatives and friends to whom he's sent souvenir firearms, to register them properly and have the automatic weapons made unserviceable."

He explained how a gun is made unserviceable by welding the barrel and that the working parts of a gun can still function, making it a safe souvenir.

The purpose of the national firearms act, which gives the authority for their action on automatic weapons, is to stop traffic in firearms popular with gangsters. "The act is not designed to interfere with possession or trade in sport, hunting, and private guns. The act covers any machine gun (one that fires more than one bullet with a single press of the trigger); automatic and semi-automatic weapons; any shotgun or rifle with a barrel less than 18 inches long; any silencer for these types of guns or any other weapon capable of firing a bullet by explosion or concealed weapons except pistols and revolvers; and shotguns with pistol grips."

To cut down the trade of these weapons a heavy tax is imposed on importers and manufacturers which runs to $500 per year. A transfer tax of $200 is also imposed which is paid in a tax stamp.

Mr. Krause said that souvenir firearms were exempt from the taxes and were allowed in the country on a signed certificate of the owners unit commander. These guns must be registered, however, he said, and urged that the law enforcement officers present understand and co-operate so all souvenir firearms can be registered. "We must remedy the situation of all these weapons in this country as well as we can," he said. "We do not want gangsters to get hold of them and we look for police department co-operation."

He praised the co-operation given by both newspapers and radio in bringing to the public the seriousness of having these guns in the country, not registered and not made unserviceable.

Close to one hundred persons attended the meeting Thursday.

WILLIAM H. DEIBERT
Munising—Funeral services for William H. Deibert, 210 East Superior street, who died on Tuesday, will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Beaulieu home. Rev. Frederick Steen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate. Pallbearers will be: George Knowles, Charles Hanson, Frank Runsat, Joseph Wright, Andrew Mitchell and Edmund Mitchell.

Plea For Tolerance Made By Cardinal: Klan Menace Seen

New York, (P)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, commenting on a Protestant group's request that President Truman recall Myron C. Taylor as his personal representative at the Vatican, said the demand might represent "the anti-Catholicism of uneducated Klansmen sowing seeds of disunion within our treasured nation."

Speaking at the 101st annual commencement of Fordham University, the Archbishop of New York said "I believe in and practice tolerance, for my religion teaches me to oppose even hatred with charity. But when reunions of large groups of religious leaders, with the pretext of representing thirty or forty million Americans, sow seeds of disunion and disunity, I feel it my duty as an American and a Catholic to help defend our nation against such representations."

Yesterday the federal council of churches of Christ in America reported that President Truman last week had informed a delegation headed by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the federal council, that Taylor's appointment "was a temporary expedient" that would certainly terminate with the signing of the peace treaties.

Great Britain was the first country in the world to become industrialized.

MANY FAVOR HARBOR PLAN

Over 40 Persons Attend Hearing Held By US Engineers

Between forty and fifty civic-minded Gladstone residents attended the public hearing conducted by Army Engineers from Milwaukee relative to Gladstone's request for federal assistance in improvement of the local outer harbor.

Here from the Army Engineers office at Milwaukee were Colonel Colonna, Lt. Col. A. R. Striegl and a stenographer.

A brief, containing a definite plan for the harbor development, and written arguments in favor of the project was introduced. It had been prepared by Wm. J. Noreus who had been engaged to do the work by the Yacht club.

At the request of City Manager H. J. Henriksen, local presentation of the case was handled by Dr. O. S. Hult.

In addition to the insertion of the brief and written depositions into the record, Dr. Hult called on Wm. Noreus, D. A. Mathison, E. H. Huesener, H. J. Henriksen, Phil Hupy, A. C. Peterson, J. F. Richardson, W. P. Miller, Glenn Jackson, George Mathison, Leo De-Roeck, M. J. Magoon and James T. Jones and Wm. Marble for oral statements. Dr. Hult also presented an oral statement.

None who were heard disavowed the project.

All records of the hearing will be forwarded to the War Department at Washington for consideration.

Before the close of the hearing, Col. Colonna explained to the group that ordinarily the government has only provided assistance in construction of breakwaters and dredging of harbors where commercial craft were concerned, and that it has only recently given assistance on yacht harbors and then on a money matching basis with the community sponsoring the project.

Thomas Schenk Is Granted Discharge

Radio Man 3/C Thomas Schenk returned home on Sunday night, June 9, after receiving his discharge from the U. S. Navy, on that afternoon at Great Lakes. He has been in service for two years and most of that time was spent in the Pacific area at Leyte, Ulithi, Korea, Shanghai and Formosa. Tommy served aboard the USS Arkansas first and then was transferred to the USS Baldwin, DD 625 at Okinawa, and he arrived in the U. S. on that same ship, which was decommissioned at South Carolina.

CAMPOREE FOR SCOUTS TODAY

Local Boys Attending To Meet At Police Post At 2

Boy Scouts of Gladstone's four troops will participate in the district wide Camporee to be held at Pioneer Trail Park today and Saturday.

Scouts will report to the State Police Post at 2 o'clock. Arrangements have been made to have a truck transport all Scouts and equipment to the park.

Scouts attending will stay overnight and will prepare three meals, supper this evening and breakfast and dinner Saturday.

Campsites are to be chosen by number upon arrival at the park. Each Scout participating should bring uniform, knife and hatchet, ground cloth and plenty of bedding, cooking utensils and plenty of good wholesome food, a bar of soap and some old newspapers, flashlight, Scout handbook, five feet of 3/4 inch rope and some store string, shovel for tent digging and what sports equipment he may want.

Patrols will be judged on preparation of the noon meal on Saturday.

Gladstone Scout Troop Registers

Also registering are: Henry DeMay, Donald Pada, Lawrence Aicher, Michael Guimond, James LeGault, Carlton Mineau, Marvin Schram, Clarence King, Frederick DeMay, Earl Closs Jr., Lawrence LaPlant, and David Engstrom.

In the registration roster, there are 8 Tenderfoot Scouts, 14 Second Class, 4 Star Scouts, 1 Life Scout, and 1 Eagle Scout. Included in the registration there are 5 new Scouts for the year.

Troop 466 is one of the larger troops of Gladstone, and ranks among the outstanding units of the District. During the past year the troop has participated in nearly all district wide Scouting activities, and made a very good showing of its talents. Special community services have been outstanding. During Boy Scout Week, a special display of Scouting crafts were displayed.

Harold Mackie, who is Scoutmaster, has been leader of the troop for the past five years, and has done a fine job. His assistant, Robert Hupy, a Scout of long standing, has taken up the position during the past year.

America has 2,400,000 miles of rural roads serving 6,000,000 farms, but only 45,000 miles have high-type pavement.

Merwin W. Nelson Home From Service

VanWagoner Bids For Wayne Votes

(By The Associated Press)
Murray D. Van Wagoner launched his bid for Wayne county democratic support in the June 18 gubernatorial primary in Detroit by terming a report he "doesn't want the nomination" a "vicious rumor" started by his opponents.

All four republican candidates for governor were active, Raymond J. Kelly and Detroit Mayor Edward J. Jeffries speaking from Detroit radio studios, Lt. Gov. Vernon J. Brown campaigning in the Saginaw-Franklin area and Kim Sigler touring in Cheboygan and Kalamazoo.

Pointing to his record as highway commissioner for eight years and governor in 1941-42, Van Wagoner said he has not "felt it necessary to dash out into the political woods to beat the bushes for voters."

"The people of Michigan are being promised everything imaginable by other candidates for governor," he told a 17th Congressional district meeting, "everything that is, except cool summer evenings and mild winters. If I had to indulge in political hokum to become the next governor I wouldn't even be in the race."

If he weren't interested in winning the nomination, he said, he wouldn't have campaigned in most of both the Upper and Lower Peninsulas.

Jeffries reiterated his aim, if elected, "to win for Detroit and other home communities their fair share of the state's steadily increasing sales tax revenues."

Accusing Sigler of "ducking the State Aid issue," he also took an indirect slap at Brown by saying he would rid Lansing "of the stench of scandal and put an end to the wide-scale activities of gambling racketeers and other undesirable elements."

Heart Pains May Be Due To Spine

Chicago—Pain around the heart, even when agonizing and of a constricting nature and radiating down the left arm, may be caused by trouble in the spine instead of the heart disease, angina pectoris, which it resembles, Col. Allen Izard Josey and Lt. Col. Francis Murphy, of O'Reilly General Hospital at Springfield, Mo., report in the forthcoming issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association here.

The spinal trouble which they found causing the pain in 30 cases was a ruptured disk between vertebrae at the bottom of the neck.

The nerve pathway by which this condition produces pain around the heart is not known. Operation and sometimes treatment by neck traction relieved the condition.

Quarnstrom To Succeed Titus As Commissioner Of Schools

C. P. TITUS

HAGLE QUARNSTROM

C. P. Titus of Gladstone, county commissioner of schools since 1935, yesterday announced his resignation, effective Aug. 15, to take a position as superintendent of schools at Bellevue, lower Michigan. He will be succeeded by Hagle Quarnstrom, 1609 Wisconsin avenue, Gladstone.

Mr. Titus came to Gladstone in 1928 to teach sciences in the high school following his graduation from Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo. He remained a member of the Gladstone faculty until his election to the office of commissioner.

Mr. Titus has served as president and vice president of the Michigan County School Commissioners association. He has been a member of the board of directors of the Michigan Education association since 1940, and has served on the M. E. A. publications and legislative commissions. As commissioner, he instituted in 1940 the county rural library service, which consists of 5,000 volumes delivered by a Bookmobile. He also introduced a visual education program in the rural schools in 1938.

Bellevue, which has a large Class C school system, is located in Eaton county, 18 miles from Battle Creek. Mr. and Mrs. Titus will move to Bellevue about mid-August.

Mr. Quarnstrom was graduated from the Gladstone high school, class of 1919, and the University of Michigan, 1923. He will return to the university this summer to obtain his master's degree. After a year of teaching in Redland, Fla., Mr. Quarnstrom returned to Gladstone to teach mathematics and physics in the high school. He has served as president of the Gladstone Teachers club and the Delta County M. E. A. unit, and as delegate to the representative assembly of M. E. A. from Delta County. Mr. Quarnstrom has been faculty adviser on publications at the Gladstone high school the past 15 years. He is married and has two children, Thomas and Robert. His wife is the former Willodine Melver of Cordele, Ga.

Appointment of Mr. Quarnstrom as the successor to Mr. Titus was made according to the state statute by a group, composed of Probate Judge William J. Miller, Prosecuting Attorney J. Clyde McGonagle, and County Clerk J. Theodore Ohlen. The term of office will expire June 30, 1947. The election for the succeeding four-year term will be held next April.

Prospects for a bus line for Manistique appear bright.

Laurion Brothers, Gilbert and Clement, appeared before the city council at its meeting Tuesday and asked that the council take the necessary steps for the granting of a franchise to them to operate a bus line that would run on regular schedule and provide transportation between the industrial areas and the residence districts, traversing also the business areas of both Cedar and Deer streets.

The brothers state that they have the opportunity to make a very satisfactory deal for three good buses but state that they do not wish to make any such transaction unless they are reasonably assured that a franchise would be granted them.

The city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance covering the matter of bus line franchises for presentation and reading at the next meeting of the council.

Secret German Films Will Be Presented Here

German made films, only recently released by the war department for public showing, will be shown in Manistique next Monday evening.

These films were captured by the American forces shortly before the termination of the war with Germany and up to that time were shown only among military men of the Reich and under the strictest of censorship.

They are being presented in Manistique by the Army Recruiting Service under the sponsorship of the American Legion at the Legion hall, with two presentations being given in the course of the evening, the first one to start at 8 o'clock.

The pictures are free to the public and a cordial invitation is given to any who may wish to attend.

Negaunee Seeks Victory Over Bears At Escanaba

Negaunee, June 13.—Hoping to get above the 500 mark, Negaunee's Rovers will go to Escanaba next Sunday in quest of their fourth victory of the season when they face the Bears for the first time and complete the first round of play in the Northern Wisconsin-Michigan league.

Last Sunday Manager Bill Goldsborough's men came from behind a 3-0 deficit to beat the Iron River All-Stars at the Playgrounds. Ralph Gustafson shaded Zig Guzowski in a mound duel, Gustafson giving up four hits and Guzowski misjudged fly ball hit by Paul Moll accounted for the winning runs in the last of the seventh.

Facing the Bears, Goldsborough may start Abbie Jokela or Vance Hiney Sunday. Escanaba's sole win this year was a 9-8 extra-inning battle from the Iron Kings.

Rangers Beat Bears

Last Sunday at Iron Mountain the Bears came out on the short end of a 7-3 tussle with the Rangers. Ishpeming's Walter Blittia, new Ranger catcher, drove in the tying run and scored the winning marker after a five-inning deadlock between the two clubs.

Frank Fleming, of Munising, was in Escanaba Wednesday to arrange a few details concerning the boxing exhibition planned there on the Fourth of July. The boxing matches will be a part of the Independence Day celebration in that community and they will be held outdoors. There will be no admission charge but a free-will collection will be taken to help meet expenses. Six to eight bouts will be presented and the matches will be AAU sanctioned.

The Munising American Legion post, which is sponsoring the revival of amateur boxing in that community, also is promoting a junior baseball program in Munising. There are 10 clubs in two leagues involving youngsters from the ages of nine to 17, inclusive. One group is from nine to 12, inclusive, and there are six clubs in that league. The other is from 13 to 17, inclusive, and there are four clubs in this circuit. All the equipment, including bats, balls, catchers' equipment, etc., was provided by the Legion.

This is the kind of a program that will really build up baseball in a community and will develop the baseball talent that is essential to sustain the sport. Junior league baseball ties in perfectly with high school baseball, which is just getting started on a firm foundation in the Upper Peninsula. The two together form a combination that is bound to develop outstanding talent and to provide opportunities for many youngsters to get into the game professionally.

From Negaunee comes report that Abbie Jokela or Vance Hiney will grace the hill for the Rovers Sunday against the Escanaba Bears at the Escanaba diamond. Hiney is one of the old timers in Upper Peninsula baseball but they say he still is a shrewd chucker. He probably will only work part of the game, however, as he's getting a little old for nine innings of hurling. Anyway, the Bears are making no secret of the fact that they plan a hot reception to anyone the Rovers elect for mound duty. The Bears want to get off the bottom of the league standings . . . and fast.

The decision on the disputed Crystal Falls-Channing game of last week will be made Sunday at Iron Mountain, President Buck Erickson has announced. A neutral board will weigh the evidence and make the determination. Unless some circumstances come to light that have not already been revealed, it's probable that the protest will be allowed, a balk awarded and the game ordered replayed from that point with Channing leading 3-1 in the fifth and runners on second and third.

That's not bad for a 35-year old "hasbeen" whose days in the major leagues are supposed to be numbered.

Commentators, after watching the former army air force captain drill laboriously around the initial sack in spring training down south, shook their heads and predicted that Hank would discover that six years away from the game was too much of a handicap for him to overcome.

For a time after the start of the season it appeared they were right. But with the advent of warm weather, which took some of the stiffness out of his legs, Greenberg began to regain some of his pre-war form. During the past two weeks the Bronx born batter has been banging away at a .350 clip which has boosted his average around the .280 mark. Hank is very anxious to climb over .300, something he hasn't failed to do in each of his full time campaigns since he reached the big top in 1933.

GREENBERG NO
'HASBEEN' YET

Big Hank Vies With Top Swatters Of Loop For Hitting Honors

BY JOE REICHLER

New York, June 13 (AP)—Early this spring deep misgivings were voiced in many quarters over the ability of Hank Greenberg to remain in the regular lineup come July the Fourth, but today, only three weeks from that "day of reckoning," the big Detroit power hitter not only is playing regular, but vying with Ted Williams, Charley Keller, Joe DiMaggio and other top swatters for slugging honors.

Greenberg, whose $60,000 per annum makes him the highest salaried star in baseball, currently is tied with Williams and Keller for the most home runs in the major leagues; tops all others in total extra base hits with his 15 doubles, a triple and 14 home runs, and is pressing the leaders with his 33 runs batted in.

Baseball's Birthplace
Exhibition Lures
10,000 People

Cooperstown, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—Abner Doubleday's old home town welcomed baseball back to its birth place today in appropriate festive surroundings, with a throng of 10,000 turning out to watch the New York Giants trounce Detroit 9-5 in an exhibition game in which Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tossed out the first ball.

The most colorful of the day's ceremonies was the dedication of a hall of fame commemorating the excellent work of the late Kene-saw Mountain Landis by Governor Dewey and Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

The ball game actually was all over before New York had finished batting in the first inning. Hal White, a native of Utica, N. Y., only 40 miles away, was the Detroit starter, but the Giants showed little sentiment in jamming across five runs on five hits including Sid Gordon's two-run homer and doubles by Willard Marshall and Rookie Garland Lawing in the first. They added two more in each of the second and third frames before Johnny Gorsica and Hal Manders took over to blank them the rest of the way.

Eddie Schumacher in the third, repeated the trick off Rookie Dick Hoover in the fifth and Bob Swift hit one over the left field stands in the Tixer ninth.

Big Train Best Of All,
His Fast Ball Burned

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

Walter Johnson was practically booted out of old League Park, Cleveland, in August, 1935, for doing the best he could with what he had.

It's too bad that the Big Train did not hang on for another year because then the greatest pitcher who ever lived would have managed the boy who generally is considered the closest approach to him, Bob Feller.

Johnson was as nice a fellow as he was a pitcher, however, too decent and soft spoken to handle a lot of roughneck ballplayers.

Alva Bradley offered to make him vice-president and general manager of the Indians, but Barney had enough.

Johnson generally is rated the daddy of them all despite the fact that everybody in the park knew what he was going to throw, and that the batter was perfectly safe in swinging at it.

A pendulum arm swung from Johnson's shoulder that propelled the pellet like a slingshot. The large Kansan's sweeping, effortless delivery was a little lower than that of a side-arm pitcher, and the Big Train's theory was that a pitcher might as well pour the ball through there while he had it.

Had there been a mean streak in Johnson, batters would not have dared to leave the dugout. But Barney had remarkable control—especially for one so swift—and not once in 20 years did he dust off a batter.

Shortly before the fine Cleveland shortstop was killed by Carl Mays' bean ball in 1920, Billy Evans called a second strike on Ray Chapman in a game pitched by Johnson. Chapman started for the bench.

"You have another strike coming, Ray," said Umpire Evans.

"Never mind, Billy," replied Chapman, "I don't want it."

Had Johnson been ambitious to establish records, he would have set more than he did, and more than a dozen of his marks still stand despite the fact that he spent half of his 20 years with a second division ensemble of Senators. His total strikeouts, 3497, is likely to stand for all time. He had earned-run marks of 1.09 in 1913, 1.71 in '14, 1.55 in '15, 1.89 in '16, 1.23 in '18 and 1.49 in '19.

The Big Train accounted for from 20 to 36 games for 10 consecutive campaigns. Then, in the serene and yellow of his illustrious career, he helped the Washington club to pennants with a 23 and a 20-game season.

Johnson threw a light, live ball which was as easy to catch as it was difficult to hit. To make things still more unpleasant for batters, Eddie Ainsmith whistled as the ball shot into his glove.

Johnson might have gone on for another half dozen years had not a blow off Joe Judge's bat fractured the pitcher's left leg during spring training in Tampa in 1927. When Johnson took over the Cleveland club in 1933 at the age of 45, in batting practice he was the still the swiftest pitcher in the business.

Barney admitted he was a "thrower" until he hurt his arm in 1920.

He didn't have to be anything else. Following the injury, however, he "learned to pitch." But to the end he was only experimenting when he resorted to anything but the hard one.

Johnson had to pitch overhand to throw a curve, and consequently everybody, including the ticket takers at the gates, knew when one was coming.

Johnson liked to experiment when he could afford to, which was frequently the case. Fellows like Eddie Collins used to say: "I'll get two fast ones and then a curve—I hope."

In 1903, a 21-year-old Johnson shut out the Highlanders at the old hilltop grounds in New York on Friday with six hits, on Saturday with four and on Monday with two. Had there been Sunday ball in Manhattan then, he would have shut them out on that day, too.

Johnson, winner of 36 at his peak, bagged 23 in 1924, when he was practically washed up, beat the Giants in the 12-inning thriller that gave Washington the World Series.

The following year in the World Series, he beat the Pirates, 4-1, and 4-0, and was in there at the finish.

Goodness gracious sakes alive! And that happened to be the most profane utterance of Walter Johnson.

Barney's fine team has already proved that it is the club to beat for the Cleveland title.

BANG'S DISEASE TESTS STARTED

U. S. Veterinarians At Work On Herds In Delta County

Laboratory tests to discover cattle in the county infected with Bang's disease (contagious abortion) and to dispose of the diseased animals was started yesterday in Delta county by veterinarians of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, bureau of animal industry.

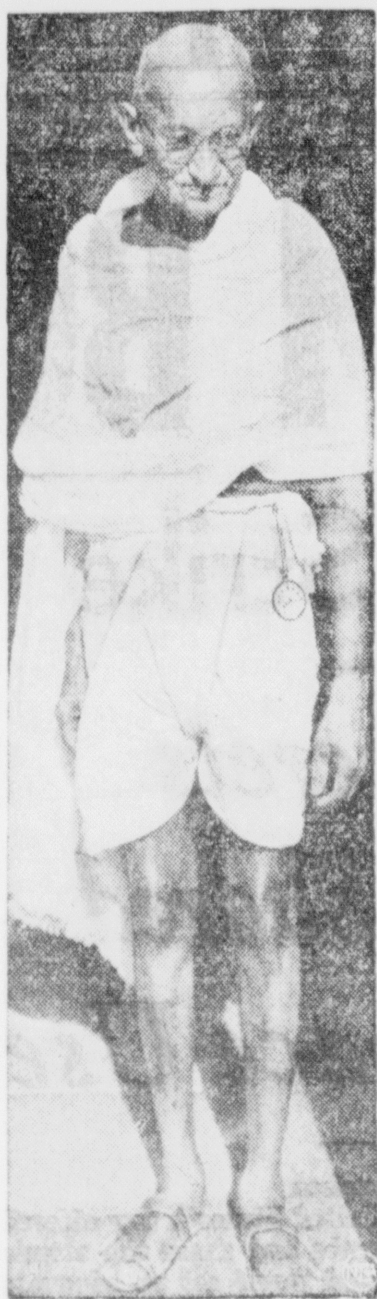

The laboratory is located in a trailer at Ludington Park, Escanaba, near the old pumping station. Visitors are welcome to inspect the laboratory and watch the tests being made, it was announced by Dr. L. Segal, supervisor. Dr. Dorothy Segal is in charge of the laboratory work. Others in the staff are: Dr. A. E. Peter, working in Wells township; E. G. Boydston, Escanaba township; E. J. Wuelner, Bark River; P. B. Mellinore, Ford River. Dr. L. Segal is working in Cornell township.

The work will require two months to complete, and rechecking in the fall on herds now in pasture may be necessary unless farmers can have their cattle to the barn for testing. Two years, last date of the check, 15,000 head of cattle were tested in this county. To certify as Bang's free, an area must have less than one per cent of cattle, and less than five per cent of the herds, infected with the disease.

In humans, Bang's disease takes the form of undulant fever. This is the fourth county-wide test since the program was inaugurated.

Animals found infected may be sold for slaughter, since the meat is not infected. Besides the slaughter price the farmer receives an indemnity from the government not exceeding $25 on grade animals and $50 on registered animals.

Garden Peninsula was completed last month by the veterinarians while they were working out of Manistiquet. Dr. Segal reported that about 1,700 head were tested, and four or five infected herds were found. About 15 reactors were disposed of and the herds were then retested to make certain they were free of the disease.

Cars driven by Mrs. George Hurley, Old State road, and Mrs. Norman Kumbier, Pickett, Wis., were badly damaged but occupants of both machines escaped serious injury in a collision just before noon Friday at the intersection of highway M-35 and Eighth Avenue south.

Mrs. Kumbier, driver of the Wisconsin car, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kumbier, Mrs. Norbert Hinkle, all of Pickett, and Richard Belden, ten-year-old grandson of the Kumbiers, whose home is in Petoskey, were all treated for cuts and bruises at St. Francis hospital. Mrs. Hurley had x-rays taken but apparently required no immediate treatment at the hospital.

City police officers, who investigated the accident, said that the Kumbier coach was proceeding south on the highway and Mrs. Hurley was driving west on the avenue on the way to her home at the time of the collision. The Wisconsin car was overturned by the impact, its front end, top and a side heavily damaged. The front end of the Hurley machine was badly damaged. No one was held.

In another accident early Friday morning a Delta Transit company bus driven by Douglas Stowe, Gladstone, was damaged when Stowe was forced off the road by an approaching vehicle and struck a light pole. The driver told police officers that the oncoming car was weaving along the road and failed to stop after forcing the bus from the highway. Stowe was alone.

Separated By War In China, Sharp Family Is Hoping For Reunion Here

The story of the Clinton Sharp family is one of great tragedy, dramatic courage, of sorrow and separation. It is a story of a family wrecked by the Japanese war of aggression in China—yet it may have a happy ending in Escanaba, Michigan.

Latest chapter in the story was told the other day in the living room of the Louis Amundsen home at 713 South 17th street, where Myrtle Sharp, 13, and her sister, Isabelle, 9, told of their experiences in a Japanese internment camp at Weishien, China.

Clinton Sharp fought in World War II and returned to Escanaba when the war ended. He was 20 years old, restless and unable to "settle down", according to his mother, Mrs. Belle Sharp, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Amundsen.

"He wanted to see the world, and he thought he might be sent to Russia with United States occupation forces if he reenlisted in the army," said his mother. "But instead they sent him to China," added his sister, Mrs. Amundsen.

Married Japanese Girl

The story began then 23 years ago when Clinton Sharp landed in China. He did not reenlist in the army, and preferred to make his home in China. He came home once on a visit 24 years ago and then returned to Tientsin where he established a dry cleaning business in that city. The business prospered and he married a Japanese girl—"a girl of refinement and education," said Mrs. Amundsen.

There followed a long period of happiness for Clinton Sharp, his Japanese wife and their four children—two boys, Robert and Arthur, and two daughters, Myrtle and Isabelle. There was a home at Peitaiho on the shore of the Yellow Sea where the children swam. There were riding horses, good schools where the boys excelled in high school athletics. The father registered all members of the family as American citizens—with exception of his Japanese wife who was barred by U. S. law from attaining citizenship through marriage.

Mrs. Amundsen presented photographs she had received from her brother during this period of the Sharp's family life—pictures of them as a group, of the boys with the cups and trophies they had won in athletics. In only one picture was the mother and one of the children dressed in Japanese costume, and that had been for the benefit of the photographer at the request of Mr. Sharp. There was also a picture of Mr. Sharp's place of business in Tientsin.

Family Torn Apart
Then the Japanese militarists began their open march of conquest into China, Indo-China and southward, Singapore fell.

Becoming increasingly alarmed Sharp sought to leave China and bring his family to America. But immigration laws would not permit Mrs. Sharp to enter this country except on a six-month visitor permit. At the end of that period she would have had to return. He decided it would be better to keep the family together—but Pearl Harbor followed and the Sharps were separated in the ebb and flow of war that raged across China, were reunited only after three years of hardship and suffering.

"My father, Isabelle and I were interned by the Japanese at Weishien," said Myrtle. "While we were not ill-treated, the food was scarce and often there was not enough to keep us from going hungry."

Isabelle told animatedly of the time, near the end of their long stay in the internment camp, when an American bomber came flying over and a number of paratroopers dropped from the plane. They also brought food for the prisoners.

The tedium of long months and years in the internment camp were whittled away by the prisoners in working and playing. For the children there were entertainments arranged by the denominational leaders, and it was there that Isabelle became a Brownie—the Girl Scout program for young girls. They were liberated in September, 1945, and returned to their home at Peitaiho near Tientsin.

Meanwhile Mrs. Sharp and her two sons were undergoing great suffering and hardship. After being separated by the Japanese from the American father and the two daughters, the Japanese attempted to conscript Robert and

Arthur into the Japanese army. Escaping from the Japanese Mrs. Sharp and her sons fled westward from Tientsin. They had gone 200 miles past Peiping when they were taken in custody by Chinese communist forces and held as "guest prisoners". The privations and hardships in traveling through a war-torn country, plus the additional sufferings and lack of food in the Chinese communist internment camp proved more than their health could withstand. All three were stricken with tuberculosis.

They were liberated at the end of the war last year and all three collapsed in the hospital to which they were taken. The sons recovered sufficiently to return to Peitaiho, and later came back to Escanaba for their mother.

The family was reunited briefly and the daughters were brought to the United States under the care of Sister Ludmilla of the Franciscan Sisters, their guardian, who had been in the Japanese internment camp with them at Weishien. They arrived in the United States last November and were taken to St. Mary's Academy at Milwaukee.

Univ. Of Chicago

Donald Charles Baum, 408 So. 11th street, Escanaba, was graduated from the University of Chicago in the university's 225th convocation, which was held Friday in Rockefeller Memorial Chapel on the Midway.

Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins presented the convocation address and conferred degrees upon the 573 graduates. A sixteen-year-old student, a scientist who is attending Crossroads Operations, and 125 veterans were among the graduates.

The College of the University, which admits students after their sophomore year in high school for a four-year program of general education, graduated its first four-year class. The class, largest in the four-year history of the College, included 284 graduates.

Youngest of the College graduates was 16-year-old Lawrence H. Hersheness, Chicago. The scientist stationed in the Bikini Atolls, who received a doctor of philosophy degree, was Ralph Lapp, Buffalo, New York. Twenty-eight years old, Lapp is assistant director of the Metallurgical Laboratory of the University of Chicago, where the first chain reaction for the atomic bomb took place.

Baum received a bachelor's degree in the college.

End of Price Control

THE senate has followed the lead of the house in emasculating price control as a basic national policy in the reconversion period. The final form of the OPA decontrol measure will be drafted by a combined house-senate committee, but whatever changes are adopted by the committee in the two versions passed by the house and the senate will be in line with the determination of the nation's legislators to kill price control.

The removal of all price ceilings on meat, eggs, milk, butter and chickens as adopted by the senate is the crux of the price control issue. These are all fundamental cost of living items. It is impossible to retain effective price control on any commodities without establishing ceilings on these basic food items.

The continuance of price control, with restrictive amendments, is merely a pretense and a sop to the hundreds of thousands of Americans who fear the spread of inflation due to uncontrolled prices.

There is no point in fooling ourselves. The congress might better kick out OPA and price control altogether than to try to confuse the issue by conveying the thought that there is price control when actually there is not. At least in the former instance, the nation will be awake to its danger and will not be lulled into a fallacious belief that it has set up effective barriers against inflation.

If there is a sharp rise in the cost of basic food items after June 30, which seems inevitable, it will be absolutely impossible to hold the price line on any other commodities.

It's Good Business

ESCANABA appears to be the convention center of the Upper Peninsula this year, for it seems that almost every week there is a regional, state or district meeting of some kind lined up for this city.

Fortunately, a number of the large conventions were scheduled before the tourist rush, which is expected to get under way after the Fourth of July. By early scheduling, the hotels, restaurants and other facilities are able to give the excellent service that has given Escanaba a wide reputation as an ideal convention city.

We are glad to get conventions, for they bring a lot of good business to the city. A recent national survey revealed that the average convention goes in this country stays four days and spends $100. This spending is also well distributed, for a survey conducted by the New York convention bureau showed that of each dollar spent by the convention-goers, 25.2 cents goes to hotels, 9.2 cents to hotel restaurants, 11.1 to non-hotel restaurants, 18.7 to department and retail stores, 10 to night clubs, 10.5 to theatres and sight-seeing agencies, 6.5 for beverages, 3.4 to taxi and bus companies, 1.1 to garages and 4.3 to miscellaneous merchants.

The convention business, like the tourist business, puts new money in the cash registers of almost every commercial establishment in a community.

Big Year for Scouts

BOY SCOUT leaders of the Red Buck district report that the attendance of Scouts at camp this summer will be the largest in years. Some troops report that all of their members have signed up for a week or more at the Boy Scout camp at Red Jack lake, the first time that this goal has been achieved in the Red Buck district.

The camping program is one of the most important aspects of Scouting. Youngsters meet in a healthful environment for pleasure and education in wholesome living. During their stay at camp, they get an opportunity to put into use much of the Scouting knowledge that they have acquired during the year. It is a period that every Boy Scout looks forward to with great anticipation.

Parents, too, are mindful of the benefits that their sons will reap from a week or more at Boy Scout camp, secure in the knowledge that their boys are in safe hands during the period in which the boys are enjoying the fellowship, health and recreation of Scouting at camp.

Schools Are Merging

DORR STACK of the department of public instruction reports that the little red schoolhouse is steadily vanishing from the Michigan countryside.

The school consolidation movement, which was well under way before the war in the rural districts, has been resumed at an accelerated pace. Since Jan. 1, 1945, more than 200 school districts have been absorbed into larger units.

Good highways and motor buses have shrunk the size of the rural communities. Many of the school districts are too small to support adequate educational facilities, but by merging with one or more nearby districts they are able to finance a program that meets the demands of the times. Even within a single district, educational benefits can be broadened by closing the one-room schools and transporting the students to central or consolidated schools, such as has been done at Rock, Rapid River, Cooks and Stephenson.

Through consolidation, these districts are offering educational facilities to their children that compare favorably with the school systems of urban communities. It eliminates the necessity of sending children to reside away from home in order that they may receive a decent high school education.

Takes Heavy Toll

HEART disease is rapidly becoming the chief cause of death in the United States, being far ahead of cancer, the second on the list of diseases which kill the greatest number of people every year.

Incidentally, of the 10 leading causes of death in the country, only one, tuberculosis, has shown a steady decline during the past three years. Doubtless, this welcome gain in the fight against this dreaded disease may be attributed to the educational work by such organizations as the Michigan Anti-Tuberculosis society and the expansion of sanatorium facilities, such as Pinecrest at Powers.

Concerning heart disease, a recognized authority reports that coronary sclerosis is sometimes called the "disease of the intelligentsia" because of the susceptibility of physicians, bankers, lawyers and clergymen. The characteristics of the disease include the hardening of the nerves, ligaments and blood vessels around the heart and its incidence is highest among those who do mental work and lowest among those who do manual labor.

"A JEEP TO EVERY BLOCK"

(Christian Science Monitor)

To one observing peacetime traffic on America's city streets, it is apparent that the jeep has "gone to town." When this military motor car was first fabricated, it served such a variety of purposes that the manufacturers ventured the opinion it would make an ideal postwar car for the farm. It would come in handy for hauling butter and eggs to market and, with trailer attached, could be used for moving fodder and wood over rough rural terrain.

But they couldn't keep the jeep on the farm. They attract attention on town and city streets because of their makeshift tops. Most common is a sort of tubular tent, made appropriately of khaki-colored canvas and reminiscent of the covered wagon. The jeep, like many a mustered-out G. I., is obtaining civilian garb.

It isn't surprising that the jeep has come to town. For the motorist whose car is on its "last wheels," it is solving economically the transportation problem. The war-coined "forty acres and a jeep" may be revised to "a jeep to every city block."

SHORTCAKE SACRIFICE

(New York Herald-Tribune)

The committee in charge of the annual Strawberry fair out in Lebanon, Ore., has notified Secretary of Agriculture Anderson that the usual mammoth strawberry shortcake, a two-and-a-half-ton feature, will not be on hand this year to delight citizens and small boys of a strawberry-conscious town, where berries grow as thick as the evergreen timber of Linn county. It has been decided to sacrifice the big cake as part of the community's effort to conserve food for hungry countries which not only have no shortcake but are mighty short of bread.

There is, we think, a current moral to be drawn from this sacrifice of an Oregon strawberry shortcake. For every one of us, from coast to coast, has his own "shortcake," some desired, perhaps delicious, but really unnecessary food, which could be given up for the sake of peoples who could not today, even in their hungriest dreams, conceive of a 5,000-pound, berry-crowned cake.

KELLY AND THE BONUS

(Detroit Free Press)

Gov. Kelly is to be applauded for refusing to be stampeded into calling a special session of the Legislature to authorize a referendum vote on the question of a veteran's bonus.

Perhaps a bonus should be paid by the State, but it should not be made a political question as too many candidates are seeking to make it.

A bonus involves serious problems, both for those who will benefit from it and for the taxpayers who must bear the cost.

Kelly, under no pressure as a candidate, is able to act independently in the best interests of all concerned.

WASHINGTON

Many a time has this modest column pleaded, cajoled, argued, and scolded in attempting to stamp out the slovenly pronunciation "WORSH-in-dun" for the venerated name Washington. I can report a little headway during the last two or three years. My four-year radio check reveals that the correct pronunciation WASH-ington is gaining ground throughout the nation, except in one particular place—the city of Washington itself!

A few of the members of Congress, government officials, and radio commentators who broadcast from the capital city have finally taught themselves to say WAHSH-ing-tun, and it has a fine American ring that delights the ear and gladdens the heart. But they are woefully in the minority, as anyone knows who listens to the radio in these days.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington — The on-the-job training provided in the GI Bill of Rights can help both the nation and the individual. It can help to supply the deficit of skilled craftsmen — Carpenters, plumbers, tailors — which we need if we are to maintain a high national income in this country.

But it is open to serious abuses. The evidence is mounting that unscrupulous employers are taking advantage of the subsistence allowance granted veterans in training to employ young men at less than a living wage.

Childs

An A F of L publication recently pointed out some of these abuses. Employers were getting filling station attendants, car greasers, clerks, newsstand attendants and so on at a cost to them of only 20 cents an hour. The Veterans Administration made up the balance of a living wage by granting a subsistence allowance on the claim that the employee was "in training" for another job.

—CHISELERS ON INCREASE—

The majority of employers are, of course, too conscientious to enter into such schemes. But there is apparently a growing minority of chiselers. In one state the AF of L found a garage had four journeyman mechanics employed. Under federal-state apprentice commission standards these journeymen could properly train two apprentices. The company now has the services of 19 on-the-job veteran trainees. In another instance trainees on a construction job were paid $10 a week.

"It is obvious with only the limited number of teachers available," said the AF of L report, "that these 19 on-the-job trainees either were placed at sweeping floors, washing cars or at other duties which would not enable them to obtain the training they were entitled to receive. How could these trainees be properly trained under these conditions? How could they expect to meet the standards of competition with which they will be faced when they are turned loose?"

This might be put down in part at least to the jealousy of craft AF of L unions desiring to restrict the number of men in the skilled trades. But outside investigation shows that many employers are chiseling.

On the farm the intention of Congress in passing the GI Bill of Rights is also being circumvented. The vocational rehabilitation and education program of the Veterans' Administration is actually promoting a program whereby farmers who are veterans qualify for subsistence allowance. They go to school for four hours a week and take two additional hours of "personal counseling" from a vocational agricultural teacher.

—HAD GOOD INTENTIONS—

As the law is now being administered, this entitles them to a subsistence allowance of $65 a month if unmarried and $90 if married. The veteran is, of course, either the son of a farmer and therefore lives with his own family, or he lives with his wife on his own farm. So the subsistence allowance is in reality a bonus.

The intention of Congress in passing the law was to make it possible for young men returning from war to resume their education and not have to earn a living during that time. It was certainly not to give a bonus of $65 to $90 a month for three and a half to four years—the time that the average veteran can claim eligibility—while the veteran went on earning his living in the same way he had earned it before he went to war.

I tried to find out from the VA what the proportion of veterans receiving allowances for this so-called institutional-on-farm training was in relation to the total. The answer was that the figures have not been broken down and therefore no estimate can be made.

With promotion by the VA and by state agricultural training centers the number getting this so-called training is rapidly increasing. This is particularly true in the southern states. It doesn't matter, of course, how much the farmer-veteran is making through his own efforts on his farm.

He may already have received the allowance granted self-employed veterans for a year after their discharge. He can claim up to $100 a month for a year if his income in any single month falls below that level. This privilege, too, is being abused, according to reports to Washington. A Florida fruit grower cashed in a $4000 orange crop one month and proceeded the following month to claim his $100.

The generous benefits provided by Congress will break down unless these abuses are stopped. If they are not stopped, a minority of the 12,000,000 veterans will get what will be in reality a bonus that Congress never intended.

the lead in teaching the rest of us to avoid the dialectal "WORSH-in-dun." Perhaps a new bureau could do the trick; or the Congress might pass a law; or the President himself might broadcast from the White House and give the people a stiff talking to.

To me, that last suggestion has real merit. Why, H. S. T. could even borrow an idea from radio and use singing commercials at frequent intervals during his talk. I'm sure Bob Hope would be glad to lend the services of Poor Miriam and the boys. And I shall furnish the song without charge.

Of all sad sounds that go the rounds,
"WORSH-in-dun," it's "WORSH-in-dun."

GOOD FISHING

—Reported among the latest visiting fishermen at the head of Little Bay de Noc is a pelican. As you may recall, a pelican is a large bird with an enormous bill, a pouch for carrying its catch of fish, and an extremely vacant expression. Any other resemblance to fishermen is purely coincidental.

The pelican was seen several times by E. T. Wilkins and his sister, Miss Gwen Wilkins, and other persons along the Garth Shores area. Before leaving for Connecticut recently, Wilkins reported that the pelican was quite tame, and expressed concern that someone might shoot the bird. He said that they had found the body of a large American eagle floating in the bay—the victim of a rifle bullet. Eagles are almost as rare as pelicans.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Some of those who have sat inside supreme court confidential conferences believe that two factors were behind Justice Robert Jackson's sudden flare-up against his associate, Justice Hugo Black.

They are: 1. Jackson's own nerve-wracking job at Nuernburg and his keen disappointment over not being appointed chief justice; 2. A conspiracy by certain groups in the USA to nullify the hard-hitting liberal opinions of Justice Black.

Most people don't realize it, but Jackson has suffered three bitter political disappointments, and in one previous case he lashed back bitterly—though privately—at a man who helped disappoint him.

Pearson

Disappointment No. 1 was when Jackson wanted to be governor of New York. It was Roosevelt's idea that this would groom Jackson as the next White House incumbent. However, FDR couldn't whip the New York politicians into line, so it was promised that Jackson would become attorney general instead.

This was disappointment No. 2. For Frank Murphy, then defeated as governor of Michigan, was appointed attorney general instead. Jackson never got over this, boiled over privately against Frank Murphy and has not spoken to Murphy since.

Disappointment No. 3 came when Chief Justice Hughes retired. Jackson had been under the impression that he had a White House promise to be Hughes' successor. But, like the candidates at Chicago in 1944 who thought they had FDR's blessing as his vice-presidential running mate, Jackson found that Harlan Fiske Stone was made chief justice instead.

—FELIX FRANKFURTER FEUD—

Since then, Jackson has labored under the impression that he was next in line after Stone retired, and his close friend Justice Frankfurter did his level best to secure the appointment for him.

However, Secretary of the Treasury Vinson was appointed instead—and at a time when Jackson was carrying an almost impossible burden at the Nuernburg war trials. Things have not been going well at Nuernburg. What was expected to be a grand show has turned into a fiasco. So news of the Vinson appointment apparently was too much.

In addition, friends of both Jackson and Black suggest that some needling of the usually gentle-mannered Jackson must have been done from Washington.

For a long time, Frankfurter has been the quiet spearhead of the anti-Black faction on the supreme court. Actually, relations between Jackson and Black have appeared outwardly cordial during confidential court sessions.

Every noon the court adjourns to its private dining room for lunch, and every Saturday the justices gather for a long private session to iron out their opinions. At these private sessions there have been differences of opinion between Black and Jackson, but except for one brief flare-up over the portal-to-portal coal case, they have not appeared to be personally in each other's hair.

Not so, however, Justice Frankfurter. It is an open court secret that he is at personal odds with both Black and Justice Frank Murphy, while relations are none too happy between him and Justice William O. Douglas.

—FLORIDA SHOOTS AT BLACK—

The opposition to Hugo Black has put some queer allies in the same corner. For instance, one link in the conspiracy against Black was woven by reactionary Tom Watson, Attorney general of Florida, who last September asked that Black disqualify himself in the Florida anti-closed shop amendment.

The Florida attorney general, having looked over Black's decisions, told the court that Justice Black had always found in favor of labor and thereby should be disqualified from sitting in this case.

Black ignored the petition and sat. As one of his colleagues remarked: "Does this mean that a justice who has always held in favor of capital should also be disqualified?"

These are some of the forces working against Justice Black, which may have helped set the stage for this week's blast from Nuernburg.

—JUDICIAL LAW PARTNERS—

A justice of the supreme court, commenting privately on the Black-Jackson feud, pointed out that the late Chief Justice Stone did not disqualify himself when members of his old law firm, Sullivan and Cromwell, appeared before the court—unless the case involved a client he had handled when a member of the firm.

Likewise, Justice Douglas was formerly a member of the firm of Cravath, Degersdorf, Swaine and Wood, but has not disqualified himself when members of this firm appeared before him—unless he had a previous interest in the case.

It was also pointed out that Supreme court justices who have been members of large New York law firms might find themselves disqualified in a great many cases if this rule were followed.

Another court observer recalled that Justice Jackson had never disqualified himself when Solicitor General Charles Fahey appeared before him. Yet Fahey served under Jackson when Jackson was attorney general—a relationship perhaps closer than that of law partners.

ELKS JUBILEE PARTY TONIGHT

Convention Feature Will Be Held At The Coliseum

The annual Upper Peninsula Elks convention and golden jubilee celebration here gets into full swing this morning with the U. P. Elks' Association business meeting at ten o'clock at the lodge.

Most of the degree teams from northern Michigan lodges will compete in the ritualistic contest beginning at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Elks temple.

Other entertainment today includes a golf tournament, fishing and boating on Bay de Noc and a tea and bridge for Elks' ladies at the Escanaba Country club.

Feature of the convention will be the golden jubilee cabaret party tonight at the Coliseum. The building has been transformed into a summer garden setting and entertainment from Chicago will include Al Marney's seven piece orchestra, Buddy and Jean, peacocking roller skating act, Gregory and Cherie, a musical comedy team, a specialty dancing act by Miss Lorraine, and an acrobatic dancing novelty by The Rochelles. Kenny Rochelle will be master of ceremonies.

Admission to the party tonight will be by ticket only. Elks who belong to the local lodge may not invite local citizens as guests although this privilege is being extended to out-of-town Elks who are delegates to the convention. This step is necessary, officials of the host lodge said, because of space limitations.

Take Of Muskrat Trappers Reduced

Lansing — (AP) — Muskrat trappers took a total of 500,000 pelts last season, 150,000 fewer than the kill the previous year, the State Conservation department reported today.

Other trappers made up for the reduced muskrat take with record kills, the department said. Raccoon trappers hit a record high of 63,700 pelts, compared with 70,000 the previous year. The fox squirrel take was 700,000 pelts, 25,000 more than the 1944 season, and the gray squirrel take was 56,800.

A total of 53,400 mink, compared with 24,400 in 1944, were brought in by trappers and the skunk and badger kills were 26,000 and 2,000 respectively.

High Heels May Age You Quickly

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Unless you have well-turned ankles and shapely legs, pass up the ankle-strap shoes. They'll only advertise less-than-lovely underpinnings which otherwise might skip along as beauties.

This warning comes from a beauty critic—Hollywood's Perc Westmore—who also points his guns at short and stocky girls who simply love to wear shoes mounted on exaggerated platform soles or wedge heels.

They shouldn't, he says, unless they want an effect that looks almost like deformity. Admitting that the short gal should add all the inches she can, Westmore thinks a better way to do it would be with conventional high-heel shoes.

He warns both the little miss and her taller sister, however, against the practice of wearing high heels on a job that calls for much walking or standing. Guess what fate he says will befall those who do? Premature old age.

Iron Mountain Man Is Injured

Iron Mountain—Art Holmberg, 602 East G. proprietor of Art's Market, is in the General hospital with a back injury and bruises about the body and legs sustained in an accident shortly after noon yesterday when his car rolled over after leaving highway US-2 between Carney and Daggett.

Although the extent of his back injury has not been determined, Dr. W. H. Alexander at noon today described his condition as "very satisfactory."

Brought to the hospital last night by ambulance from Daggett, where he was attended by Dr. Allen Peterson, Mr. Holmberg said he was crowded off the highway by an oncoming semi-trailer truck. Noticing that the truck was riding the middle of the road, he turned sharply to the right to avoid a collision. The car struck a soft spot and went out of control, hitting the ditch and rolling over. Holmberg's car was badly damaged.

The truck failed to stop. A passing driver found the Iron Mountain man unconscious and took him to Daggett, where he was attended by Dr. Peterson. Holmberg, who was in a semi-dazed condition when brought to the Iron Mountain hospital last night, was driving alone, en route to Menominee.

PASTOR OUSTED FOR RACE TALK

Marysville High School Graduation Address Is Condemned

Port Huron, Mich.—(P)—The Detroit Methodist conference was stirred here by the removal of one of its ministers for his public denunciation of racial discrimination.

While attending conference sessions, delegates learned of the dismissal of the Rev. John Safran, 33, pastor of the Marysville Community church and the only Protestant minister in that city. Rev. Safran, former Detroit attorney, entered the ministry last June and was occupying his first pulpit when the church's trustees voted 11 to 1 to remove him.

The action followed protests from the pastoral relations committee over Rev. Safran's baccalaureate address last Sunday night to Marysville high school graduates, in which he said 1,500 negroes living in South Port Huron, near Marysville, were living "under terrible circumstances."

Asserting he based his address on a survey conducted by the Port Huron Ministerial Association, he said he has "always felt it is a minister's job to talk to his congregation of particular problems in the community."

"The worst here is racial discrimination," he asserted. "There are actually eight companies in Marysville which have indicated they will not employ negroes."

Calumet & Hecla To Reopen June 17

Calumet — The Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper Co. will resume full scale operations in all of its plants and mines in the district on Monday, June 17, according to an announcement today by A. H. Wohlrab, general manager of the company.

Operations were suspended May 10, following a shortage of coal caused by the bituminous coal miners' strike.

All employees who were laid off because of the shutdown are requested to report for work on their regular schedule Monday.

Announcement was made today that a cargo of 8,500 tons of coal is expected Sunday and regular shipments are expected later.

Thus far this season, one cargo of 9,000 tons has been received.

Motorscoots Must Be Registered And Properly Licensed

It is estimated that less than half of the motor scooters being operated by Escanaba youths are licensed and registered as required by state law.

William Ranguette, manager of the state license branch office here, said yesterday that only 36 motor scooter tags had been issued locally. The license fee is $4.

Although not regarded as motor vehicles by the state law, the machines must be operated in accordance with traffic regulations. Drivers of scooters not equipped with lights are considered to be responsible for any accident in which they are involved after dark.

Early Indians Had Some Modern Ills

Knoxville, Tenn.—They had no atomic bomb, but other modern dangers including aggressor nations, famines and toothaches, wiped out four different Indian peoples who inhabited an island on the Tennessee River south of here in the course of nearly 700 years, University of Tennessee archaeologists reported today.

Hiwassee Island, second largest island in the Tennessee River a few miles from Dayton, scene of the famous courtroom battle between Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan, was the home of Indian tribes almost continuously from the twelfth or thirteenth century A. D. until 1818, excavation reveal.

Prof. T. M. N. Lewis and Madeline Kueberg of the University of Tennessee, who conducted the work at Hiwassee, say that the first Indian on the island were wiped out by an aggressor nation after perhaps two centuries.

At the time of the first European settlements in America, the island was the home of two more Indian tribes, who died from diseases brought over from Europe by the white men, according to the archaeologists.

This early and unintentional "gerb warfare" finally accounted for the fourth Indian inhabitants of Hiwassee, the Cherokees, who abandoned the island in 1818.

The investigators declare that dietary deficiencies were noted in most of the human remains of the inhabitants of the island with tooth trouble especially prominent. They estimated that at least 45 per cent of the islanders at the time of Columbus suffered from toothaches.

Local Library Gets Final Grant Check, Summer Hours Given

Munising—A check for $231.89 was received by the Munising Township library this week, as the final payment on the General Library Fund grant.

The grant, for which the library is qualified again this year, according to the requirements of the State Aid Law, is based on the per capita rate which is slightly higher than last year because the legislature increased the appropriation for aid to public libraries. The money will be used largely to purchase new books which are always in great demand, Miss Edna Erickson, librarian, said yesterday.

Beginning June 17, the library will be open afternoons only from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. During June and July there will be no evening library hours, Miss Erickson said. A Children's Story Hour is being planned to begin in July. The program will be announced later.

Reading Parley
Will Be Held At Marquette NMCE

Northern Michigan College of Education has just announced the program for the Northern Michigan Reading Conference to be held on the campus July 10, 11, and 12. The University of Michigan, the State Department of Public Instruction, and the Upper Peninsula Curriculum Planning Committee are cooperating with the college in conducting the conference.

The theme for the entire three days of meeting is "Planning for the Improvement of the Reading Program." It is estimated that superintendents, supervisors, principals, and teachers shall have abundant opportunity to confer with the members of the consultant staff on the concrete problems of their schools in the teaching of reading.

In addition to the members of the John D. Pierce School staff, a number of off-campus and out-of-state specialists have been secured to participate in the program. Dr. Irving H. Children's Aid Society
Agent Tours Peninsula

Beginning with Delta county on June 17, Miss Henrietta MacDonald, representative of the Michigan Children's Aid society, will tour Upper Peninsula counties visiting the many friends and former contributors of the society.

Miss MacDonald was employed as case aid for the Michigan Children's Aid society in the summer of 1944 and as a result is familiar with the organization and its functions.

A permanent resident of the Upper Peninsula she is a graduate of the Northern Michigan College of Education and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from that college.

The new solicitor has worked with children, being a junior high school teacher, and sympathizes deeply with the needs of children who are brought to the attention of the Michigan Children's Aid society. She remarked, "The Michigan Children's Aid society is a private child caring agency receiving no public money. Wartime conditions have increased the number of children needing boarding home care. Through the society's boarding home plan the personal attention of a real mother and father in an actual family fills the need for love, affection, security, and the physical well-being of the child. The child is regarded as an individual of importance and worth."

Aided 135 Past Year
In the Upper Peninsula the society has given care to 135 children in 60 approved homes this past year. The Michigan Children's Aid society has spent over $950.00 for Delta County children alone. These children are cared for in approved Michigan Children's Aid society boarding homes. They are dependent and neglected children to whom the Society has given good physical care and normal home ties. With the war year the Michigan Children's Aid society has of necessity assumed increased responsibility for babies born to unwed mothers. Approximately 35 such cases were handled by the Society this past year.

After the birth of the child the mother is given sufficient time to determine whether or not she can plan to keep her baby. During this period the Michigan Children's Aid society provides temporary boarding homes for the children and an opportunity is thus afforded the Society to study the child. If the mother decides to give up her child it is made a ward of the Society and a suitable foster home is found for it. Workers go about this carefully. The child's family history and development is studied and recorded. Such information is necessary in order that the best possible home can be found for each child.

Before a placement in an adoptive or boarding home is made each child is given a complete physical examination. During its stay in its foster home each child receives regular examinations, which include blood tests, tuberculin tests, Shick tests, and preventive immunizations. Dental and optical examinations are not neglected. Clothing is provided for all children and a weekly allowance is given the older children. Boarding parents are paid a weekly boarding rate for their work.

Local Men, James T. Jones, Glanston, is an active member of the Michigan Children's Aid society board of directors. Other members of the board include: Harlow A. Clark, president, Marquette; Edward S. Rice, treasurer, Marquette; Dr. Charles P. Drury, Marquette; John D. Morrison,

It is only through the generous support of interested friends that each child needing attention can be assured a home of his own where he will be loved and educated. Financial support on the part of Delta county residents is an investment in the community future.

Miss MacDonald will be in Delta county from June 17-22 and in Menominee county from June 24-29.

Organized Search For Body Planned

An organized search for the body of John E. Thompson, 28, who drowned last Sunday evening, is to be made under the direction of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, headed by D. A. Mathison.

Assistance of the Auxiliary was requested by Capt. Dan Garrett, U. S. Coast Guard, Escanaba, who said he had been advised by the Cleveland office that there were no coastguardsmen in this area who could be spared to conduct the search. Capt. Garrett and his men have searched and dragged in what free time they had when off watch, bending every effort to recover the body, but their efforts have been fruitless.

Walter Amtegen, well known Escanaba flier and a co-partner in the Pioneer Aviation company, said that he would make a search from the air on the first day that the bay was sufficiently calm.

Volunteers are needed, Mr. Mathison said yesterday and persons wishing to assist may phone the state police post, No. 4231. Search will be made this afternoon, Sunday and Monday and probably will continue as long as necessary.

Craft with either inboard or outboard motors are also needed to transport the searchers. Owners willing to cooperate may also make the fact known by phoning the police post and telling on which day and at what time they will be able to help. ## ROLEO PLANS TAKING SHAPE

High Class Swim Events Feature; Bradley To Visit City

High class competitive and exhibition swimming by aquatic stars from Arthur Hill high school, Saginaw, and the Minneapolis Athletic club will be one of the features of the amateur roleo and water festival to be held here July 4-6.

Coach Dave Gaine of Arthur Hill high conferred here this week with D. A. Mathison, roleo chairman, and said he had selected a squad of six boys to make the trip.

The team from the Minneapolis Athletic club will come to Gladstone under the supervision of Tommy Thompson, diving and swimming star, who appeared here several years ago. Thompson recently was discharged from service. He will handle the team in the absence of Coach "Red" LeMere who is entering a hospital for surgery in the near future.

Cong. Fred Bradley will come to Gladstone on Saturday, July 6, the final day of the event. He will speak to the roleo crowd during the afternoon and has offered to assist in presentation of roleo prizes.

The canvass for a fund with which to finance the celebration is making favorable progress, according to Dr. George Kelly and Robert Hupy who are in charge. Thus far good success has been met by the men and the drive is continuing.

Roleo buttons are expected to arrive here today and will be placed on sale immediately. Girl Scouts of the city are to be in charge of the button sale.

Entries of briers in some of the events are starting to come in. They are being handled by Billy Girard. Among them is one from Frank Pelouquin of Fort Frances, Ont., and another from George Glazier, Washburn, Wis., former birling partner of Girard's.

Walter Tang will supervise the decoration of the officials' platform again this summer.

The parade on July 4 will be in charge of August Mattson Post, American Legion, and they are inviting all organizations and business houses of Delta county to enter floats in the event. Prizes will be awarded the best floats.

Plans are also progressing rapidly for the Upper Peninsula Model Airplane contest to be held on July 4 at the Buckeye ball diamond in conjunction with the roleo. The meet is being sponsored by the Strato-Fliers, model building club of Gladstone.

Junior novelty races at the playground will be arranged by Director Gordon Haga.

Rooms will be needed for a number of swimmers during their stay in Gladstone. Persons having rooms which they will rent during this time may advise D. A. Mathison.

Special Events At Golf Club Sunday

An event for men and women of the Gladstone Golf club is planned for Sunday. There will be mixed foursome play which is to be followed by a dinner, served from 5 to 7 p. m.

In charge of the dinner is a committee composed of Dr. and Mrs. B. H. Skellenger, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Esler, Mr. and Mrs. James Damitz, Mrs. Charles Dehlin and Miss Alice Dehlin.

Thousands Of Lamprey
Trapped At Paper Mill

An inkling of the extent to which local streams are infested with lamprey eel, a parasite fish that is seriously threatening the fishing industry in Lake Michigan and fishing in lakes and streams of the area, may be had from watching the operations of a simple device at the Manistique Pulp and Paper Mill where literally thousands of them have been caught every day for the past two months.

The half of a gasoline barrel in which the slippery snake-like creatures are entrapped has had to be emptied on an average of four times a day and when one considers the fact that the average lamprey is about an inch in diameter and about two feet in length, that's a lot of eels.

The trap is a simple type of a fish ladder—a curved piece of sheet iron set in a sloping position at the end of the log receiving pond where a constant stream of water flows into it. The high end of the trap is above water just over the open drum and the other end is near the opening of the sewer leading from the pond to the river below. The eels come from the river, up through the sewer, wiggle up the fish ladder and land in the trap.

The trap was devised by Walter Burns, former mayor of Manistique, who originally intended to use the device as a fish ladder to get above the paper mill dam into the upper waters of the Manistique and Indian rivers. The end of the spout at that time was under water and even though he noted the presence of lamprey at that time, being unaware of their menace to fishing, he did nothing about it. Changing the device to a trap was a simple matter and to date, no other fish have been caught.

Mr. Burns states that the catch of these creatures is dependent upon the weather. The warmer and sunnier the day, the greater has been the catch.

Pond Yields Many
Last Sunday the log pond was drained and cleaned and workmen loosening the accumulation of muck at the bottom of the pond were amazed to find parts of the sediment literally swarming with what they first thought were small lamprey. From this, it would seem, that lamprey fry imbed themselves in the mud until they are of sufficient size to go out and shift for themselves.

Adult lamprey live on the life blood of fish to whom they attach themselves, lake trout being the victims most favored by them. The victimized fish eventually dies. Commercial fishermen find many trout with the lamprey clinging to them. In their nets. Most of such fish are so devitalized that they are worthless.

Lampreys are repulsive snake-like creatures covered with a smooth slippery hide. They have sucker mouths and instead of gills their breathing apparatus is a series of holes on the side of their bodies just back of their eyes.

Council Asks Action

Several weeks ago the city council sent a resolution to congressional representatives, the U. S. Department of Fisheries and the State Department of Conservation requesting that steps be taken to curb the spread of this menace to commercial fishing. Answers have come from the department of fisheries that that division will cooperate with the Canadian department of fisheries in trying to solve the problem.

"If large quantities of these creatures are so easily caught in one single instance, you can imagine what swarms of them there must be all over this part of the country," says Mr. Burns. He adds, "I wish there was some way these things could be put to some practical use." He explained that the lamprey die the same way fish do when out of water. They are then burnt in the paper mill furnaces.

Told that some people pronounce them good eating, he replied, "They can have them."

BEARS SEEKING VICTORY HERE

Escanaba Club To Play Negaunee Rovers Sunday

The Escanaba Bears have wound up their practice sessions in preparation for the NWM league game here Sunday afternoon with the Negaunee Rovers and Manager John Schwalbach has announced that the Bears are determined to score an upset over the favored Negaunee club.

The Bears have played only two games at home thus far this season, losing to Crystal Falls 3-2 and defeating the Iron Kings of Kingsford, 9 to 8. They have not fared so well on the road, however, having lost three league games on foreign diamonds.

Jim Fitzpatrick will probably draw the starting assignment against the Rovers Sunday. The left hander has looked sharp in practice sessions this week and Manager Schwalbach will probably nominate him to pin back the ears of the Negaunee club.

The Bears have been powdering the apple with plenty of vigor in batting practice this week and the players are confident that they can high pressure enough runs for victory no matter what pitcher the Rovers elect to send against them Sunday.

This is the first of two successive home games for the Bears. Next week the Channing Railroaders will come to Escanaba in a shift of the schedule necessitated to make up a postponed game. The Bears will play at Channing on the Fourth of July.

The Negaunee team is higher up the NWM ladder than the Bears, which places them in the favored position in the betting odds Sunday, but the Bears figure they're on the upswing now.

Virgil Trucks Hangs Up Third Win In Row For Detroit

By FRANK KENESSON

Detroit, June 14 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers opened an extensive home stand here today by cuffing the Washington Senators 6 to 2, rolling into third place in American League standings on the strength of their fourth straight victory.

Virgil Trucks, hanging up his third straight pitching victory for the Tigers, scattered seven Washington hits and struck out 10 men in the dusk of Detroit's first twilight game of the season at home.

Spence Slams Two

The crowd of 26,770 paid saw Stan Spence, Washington center fielder, rocket his sixth and seventh home runs into the right field stands on his first two appearances at bat but that was the extent of the Nat's offense.

Eddie Lake homered in the first for Detroit and the Tigers bunched three hits with a walk in the sixth to score three runs and chase Milt Haefner to his fifth defeat.

Altogether the Tigers collected 11 hits off three Washington pitchers, getting their last two runs in the eighth off Marino Pieretti on Hank Greenberg's triple, Roy Cullenbine's single, Jimmy Bloodworth's sacrifice and Trucks' single.

With Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler in the stands, arriving a day early for Saturday's pennant-raising festivities, the Tigers hammered Haefner for seven hits and four runs in the first five innings (there were none out in the sixth when the lefthander retired from the game) and coasted in from there.

Washington put only four runners as far as second base, Spence, of course, getting there twice, Buddy Lewis once on a fifth, inning two-bagger after two were out, and Billy Hitchcock getting as far as third in the eighth when he and Buddy Lewis singled in succession.

Catcher Al Evans struck out three times and Cecil Travis twice as Trucks got everybody but Jeff Heath and Hitchcock at least once on strikes.

Hal Newhouser, shooting for his 11th victory of the season, was Manager Steve O'Neill's selection to pitch Saturday's "Flag Day" affair against the Senators, who will call on Emil (Dutch) Leonard.

FLAG GOES UP

Detroit, June 14 (AP)—Barely hanging onto a first division berth in the current American League chase, the Detroit Tigers stood ready to hoist their 1945 World Championship flag for the first time tomorrow, hopeful that its presence atop the Briggs Stadium flagpole would inspire them to get back into contention for top 1946 baseball laurels.

Both the World Series championship bunting and the 1945 American League pennant will be raised in ceremonies preceding Detroit's Saturday afternoon game with the Washington Senators (3 p. m., EST).

More than a dozen major league club owners, managers and club officials, along with Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler and American League President Will Harridge, will participate in the flag raising ceremony.

Chandler will present World Series rings to approximately 15 members of Detroit's World Series squad of 30 players, inasmuch as only half the championship outfit still is in Tiger uniform.

GRAPEVINE REPORTS

That the Upper Peninsula all-star football game is as dead as kipped herring. According to reports reaching this office, C. E. Forsythe, state director of high school athletics, has turned thumbs down on the scheme and high school authorities, taking that cue, are said to be frowning on the all-star game. If the school heads are cool to the scheme, as reported, it means that the coaches aren't likely to pitch in and help. Without generous cooperation of all of the football coaches, the all-star game would surely fizzle out. From this corner, it looks like it has done just that.

Disapproval of the MHSAA director was not unexpected. The state association has long been opposed to all-star games of any design. The proposal obviously was doomed from the moment that its life was predicated upon approval of the MHSAA. In this particular instance, it was unnecessary to get sanction of the state association because the boys who would be selected to play in the all-star game are out of high school and beyond the control of

Only the arrival of a stretch of warm weather is required to bring out capacity crowds at the lighted field football games. The relatively few warm nights thus far have brought sharp boosts in attendance. Here's a suggestion to the softball association: Why not take the excess fence that is left over because of the reduction in frontage at the park and use it for a home run barrier at the field? Cars could park behind the fence and also serve to prevent cars from running over the field as is done so frequently now.

Hit and Miss—Elmer Anderson, Gastra hurler, has been offered a tryout with the Detroit Tigers . . . Anderson's pitching arm developed a kink recently, however, and he's been playing the outfield the past few weeks . . . He's the lad who struck out 46 batters in two games earlier in the season.

An eight team women's bowling league is operating at Iron Mountain this summer . . . The teams bowl on Thursday nights, with four bowlers to a team.

CUBS TO PLAY CHATHAM NINE

Gladstone At Munising Sunday In League Headliner

Manager Al Ness of the Escanaba Cubs baseball team announced yesterday that all of the players on his team will meet at the Escanaba field house Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock to travel to Chatham for their second game in the Rainbow League. Players will don their baseball uniforms at the fieldhouse here before the trip to Chatham. The club will travel in private automobiles.

Containing that batting timing for baseball is jeopardizing when players participate in softball games, Manager Ness also announced that players on the Cubs' team will be barred from playing softball. Although he conceded that the rule probably will cost him several of his players who have been playing both baseball and softball, Ness said that they will be replaced by youngsters who are willing to concentrate on baseball alone.

RAINBOW LEAGUE GAMES SUNDAY
Gladstone at Munising
Marquette at Trenary
Escanaba at Chatham

Marquette—No cream-puff set-up faces the Munising Papermills Sunday when they tee-off in their home ballpark against the Gladstone Redskins in the feature attraction of the Rainbow League.

Munising is, at present, bell-cow of the flock in the circuit, with two wins and no losses. Opposing the Alger county crew Sunday will be the Redskins from Gladstone, co-holders with Trenary of second slot in the league's percentage ladder. Munising, thus far, with wins over Trenary and Chatham, has proven itself a real contender for the championship of the loop. Then, too, Gladstone downed Chatham and Marquette and lost a tough one to Trenary in the ninth frame a week ago. The Redskins have what it takes in the fielding department, and if their pitching holds up, the Papermills are in for a real workout.

This battle, a headliner, should bring out the largest attendance of any game played in the league to date.

Following closely behind this stellar attraction comes the Marquette-Trenary battle in the latter town. Trenary, with two wins and one defeat, is going to be a tough nut for the Legionnaires of Marquette to crack. The Marquette aggregation boasts of much potent power but that can only be brought forth to its best advantage by regular workouts. And, apparently the local clan is beginning to realize this and, from now on, will undoubtedly prove by its work in future contests, that it still may upset the old adage and force forth as one of the teams to be reckoned with when the championship race becomes hotter.

Tie To Be Broken
Down Chatham was the two occupants of the wheel's chair, the All-Stars and the Escanaba Cubs, will be clashing to see which team moves up a notch.

The Cubs, the youngest aggregation in respect to age in the circuit, made their debut last Sunday in the Sandy City. They lost to Trenary, 3 to 5, but made a creditable showing. So the tilt with the All-Stars should give Chatham fans a contest well worth witnessing.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Munising	2	0	1.000
Gladstone	2	1	.667
Trenary	2	1	.667
Marquette	1	1	.500
Escanaba	0	1	.000
Chatham	0	3	.000

DAGGETT SIGNS ANNE FLEMING

Chosen Superintendent Of Schools For Ensuing Year

Anne Fleming, superintendent of schools at Nahma for 11 years, will be superintendent of schools at Daggett in the 1946-47 school year, it has been announced.

Born and raised at Rapid River, she was graduated from Rapid River high school, Northern Michigan College of Education and the University of Minnesota.

During the past year she was principal at Pewamo, Michigan and also taught shop and mathematics. The previous year she was superintendent at Pinnebog, Mich.

Prior to her years of service as superintendent at Nahma, she taught at Masonville and at Kipling.

Energy Secrets May Be Shared For Peace Use

chairman for the first month under a rotation plan, the council adjourned until 3 p. m. (EDT) next Wednesday.

Several delegates praised the declaration generally, but withheld comment on the detailed provisions pending further study and consultation with their governments.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said "so far matters are going smoothly." He said Baruch's speech "was well written and well delivered," but added:

"I have no comment on the substance."

Baruch declared at the outset of his speech that the atomic energy commission had the task of providing "the mechanism to assure that atomic energy is used for peaceful purposes and precludes its use in war."

"To that end," he declared, "we must provide immediate, swift and sure punishment of those who violate the agreements that are reached by the nations. Penalties are essential if peace is to be more than a feverish interlude between wars."

Punishment for Violators

He mentioned the subject of punishment for violators time and again throughout his speech. At one point he suggested that the United Nations could prescribe individual responsibility and punishment on the principles applied at Nuremberg in the war crimes trials.

He made it clear, however, that it would be up to the commission itself to decide what constituted crimes to be punished and what the penalties would be.

"If I read the signs aright," he said, "the peoples want a program not composed merely of pious thoughts but of enforceable sanctions—and international law with teeth in it."

He declared that the question goes "straight to the veto power contained in the charter of the United Nations so far as it relates to the field of atomic energy."

"There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes," he said. "The bomb does not wait upon debate."

Under the U. N. charter, any one of the five permanent members of the Security Council—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and China—may veto any question of substance which comes before the council.

Baruch suggested several acts which the United States felt should be punishable by "penalties as serious as nature as the nations may wish." These included: illegal possession of an atomic bomb, illegal possession of atomic material suitable for use in an atomic bomb, seizure of any plant or other property belonging to the authority, willful interference with activities of the authority, or creation or operation of dangerous projects in a manner contrary to a license granted by the international control body.

Under the plan outlined by Baruch the control of atomic development would be adopted by stages. He said the United States at first would make available only information essential to an understanding of its proposals. Other facts will be supplied as the controls develop.

CONSCIENCE BOTHERED

New York, June 14 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, United States representative on the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, took that post at the repeated urging of President Truman and

ILLINOIS VOTES LIBERAL BONUS

Lump Cash Awards For Veterans Range From $50 To $900

Springfield, Ill., June 14 (AP)—The nation's most liberal state soldier bonus, providing average lump cash awards of nearly $400 to 915,000 Illinois World War 2 veterans, was enacted today for submission to voters in November.

The $335,000,000 bond issue program, to be financed over 25 years partly by increased cigarette and horse racing taxes and partly by existing state revenues, was given final approval almost unanimously by the general assembly.

Republican Governor Dwight H. Green promptly signed it into law, saying it was "the most liberal state bonus ever proposed." Maximum awards would be $900 and the minimum $50.

If approved in a November referendum, the bulk of payments would be made next year, based on $15 a month for foreign and $10 a month for domestic service from Sept. 16, 1940 to Sept. 2, 1945.

Ford Dealers Sign Up With AFL Union For 300 Salesmen

Detroit, June 14 (AP)—Contracts with the AFL Teamsters Union have been signed by 65 Ford dealers in the Detroit area, providing 300 salesmen with a $65 weekly drawing account against five per cent commissions on sales, the dealers announced today.

According to James Hoffa, business agent for the union, the contract also provides that salesmen will be credited with 66 2/3 per cent of all sales made by each individual dealer whether the sales are made by the dealer himself or other officials or the salesmen. Each dealer has agreed to employ at least one salesman, Hoffa said.

The salesmen said they paid $10 initiation fee and in most cases are paying $2 monthly dues to the union.

John R. Davis, Ford Motor Co. vice-president in charge of sales and advertising, said:

"Ford Motor Co. dealers do not have to join any union as far as the company is concerned. The company is making no recommendations and no suggestions."

The Teamsters Union's drives to organize independent grocers and meat dealers were halted by a circuit court injunction recently.

DROWNS IN RIVER

Big Rapids, Mich., June 14 (AP)—Dick Waite Palmer, 12, son of Mrs. Alyce Palmer of Big Rapids, drowned in the Muskegon river today while bathing with his brother, James, 13, and another boy, Edward Rose, 13.

In the first 11 months of World War II, British lifeboats rescued an average of 46 persons a week.

An informant who would not permit identification said the elder statesman knew that the president and secretary of state wanted him to take the place on the commission but he resisted pressure for a long time. He went to his estate in South Carolina and refused to answer telephone calls.

But, this informant said, the 75-year-old financier could not sleep because his conscience kept telling him he should undertake this task and he finally agreed.

AGED ESCANABA RESIDENT DIES

Henry Almonroeder, 81, Lived In Community For 40 Years

Henry Almonroeder, 81, resident of Escanaba for 40 years, died at 8:40 p. m. Friday at the home of his son, Gus, 920 Washington avenue. Mr. Almonroeder had been ill for a year, suffering from the infirmities of old age. He was born in Cologne, Germany, Nov. 14, 1861, and came to the United States 60 years ago. He was employed as a top dock worker for the Milwaukee Road, and was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, also affiliated with the German Lutheran church.

Surviving are two sons, Gus Almonroeder of Escanaba and William of Alton, Ill.; one daughter, Mrs. Bud Vanderberg, Escanaba.

The body was taken to the Alto funeral home, where arrangements for burial will be completed today.

Hogan And Ghezzi Lead Field In U. S. Open Golf Matches

Cleveland, June 14 (AP)—The elite of golf's veteran gold brigade took charge of the 46th United States Open Championship today as Ben Hogan and Vic Ghezzi fired subpar rounds to lead the field at the halfway stage of the 72 hole test and fellow veterans were close behind.

It seemed like it would call for a colossal collapse of form by eight tournament veterans separated by four strokes for one of them not to win the first postwar championship in the gruelling 36-hole finale tomorrow when the winner will receive first prize money of $1,500 and then be exposed to an additional $25,000 to $50,000 through exhibitions and endorsements.

Sixty-four players with scores of 151 or better qualified for the final 36 holes. Eliminated from the championship run by his score of 78-75-153 was Craig Wood, who won the last pre-war championship in 1941. He became the first defending champion to fail to qualify since Johnny Farrell in 1929. Another notable casualty was Gene Sarazen, twice former champion, who has gone the full 72 hole route in all championships since his first in 1920. Sarazen was edged out by one stroke, 79-73-152.

Prosecutor Resigns In Perjury Case Of Sen. Ivan Johnston

St. Clemens, June 14 (AP)—Wilbur F. Held, Macomb county prosecuting attorney, resigned and State Senator Ivan A. Johnston appeared in court on a perjury warrant today as a grand jury probe of county law enforcement continued.

Held, under sentence to 30 days in jail for contempt in the investigation and at liberty pending an appeal, said he did not feel he could "conscientiously devote my undivided attention" to the position.

Sen. Johnston appeared before Judge Herman Dehnke of Harrisville, the grand juror, for examination and was granted a delay until June 25. He continued at liberty on his personal recognizance.

In a warrant signed by Judge Dehnke, Johnston was accused of lying to the grand jury June 6 when he denied he accepted graft money from operators of gambling establishments and bawdy houses while he was prosecutor in 1941 and 1942.

and held out until last night for 23 cents.

The increase will be retroactive to last Oct. 1, and this retroactive cash must be paid by next Oct. 31. Setting of the Oct. 31 deadline was one of the matters that delayed the settlement tonight.

The 22-cent increase will bring wages of the longshoremen from the present $1.15 an hour to $1.37. The wage stabilization board quickly approved all the increases as they affect the 80 per cent of the merchant fleet owned by the war shipping administration.

The increases will also be put into effect on privately-owned ships. The wage stabilization board is expected to consider that phase separately.

Operators Glum

The new pacts for six CIO unions and one independent were cheered by labor and deplored by ship operators.

Frank J. Taylor, negotiator for 39 east and gulf steamship companies, said "it remains to be seen for how long privately-owned ships under the American flag can survive against competition under the staggering handicap now imposed upon them."

He figured the monthly wage bill on an American ship would be $10,184 against $2,735 for the British, the next highest.

The end of the maritime crisis removed the biggest economic hazard confronting the nation once the railroad and coal strikes were out of the way.

No other major strikes were in sight at the moment.

There never was a formal announcement that the shipping dispute was settled. The story broke helter-skelter from a dozen different men racing around the government's lavish inter-departmental auditorium.

Since early morning, conference after conference had hammered away at the dispute. It had looked as if an agreement would come at any moment.

In the end, the delays were due to last minute bargaining between Bridges and employers on the west coast. Go-betweens kept a transcontinental phone wire hot.

When the settlement was reached, it was barely in time to halt walkouts in some ports and too late to check them in others.

Marquette — Three young men from Tennessee and Kentucky, two of them ex-servicemen who recently had received honorable discharges from the armed forces, are being held in the county jail, from where they will be taken to Grand Rapids later this month for appearance in Federal court on charges of violating the Dyer act (transporting stolen autos across state lines).

Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner James Fenlon in Sault Ste. Marie Tuesday, the three were brought to Marquette by U. S. Marshal Dewey Hansen. The warrant on which they were arrested was issued by U. S. Commissioner Roscoe W. Baldwin, of this city.

AMERICA LINKS UP WITH CHINA

Over $1,335,000,000 In Lend - Lease Granted; Army Built Up

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 14 (AP)—An American move to tighten military links with China coincided today with a report from President Truman to Congress that China already has received more than $1,335,000,000 in lend-lease.

Coincidentally speculation increased that Mr. Truman soon will name Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer as his regular ambassador to China but that Gen. George C. Marshall will remain in China so long as there is any hope of bringing Communist and Nationalist factions together.

All of these moves made or in view add up to an American foreign policy designed to make China a unified, militarily competent power on which the United Nations might rely for maintenance of peace in Asia and to which the United States particularly could look for support in maintaining its own security.

The newest key piece in the development of their policy is a bill which the state department sent to Congress late yesterday with the backing of the war and navy departments and of General Marshall, now in China as special ambassador.

Such assistance in military supplies would be designed to help the Chinese develop an "effective small army."

The Chinese army would be trained by a special group of land, sea and air officers whose assignment to China the bill would authorize. An American mission is now in China but under present law it would have to come home with the end of the war emergency.

recalled as representative to the Vatican, as Protestant church groups have demanded. He said that President Roosevelt originally sent Taylor there on a special mission to keep the peace, and that Taylor's mission now is to aid in making peace. When that is accomplished, he added, there will be no representative at the Vatican.

Mr. Truman declined to comment on the OPA bill, with its restrictions on price control powers which the senate passed last night.

Russia And U. S. A. Still Deadlocked On Peace Treaties

Paris, June 14 (AP)—Principals in the foreign ministers conference arrived today amid reports in American circles that the United States and Russia were just as deadlocked on the peace treaties as when the ministers left here a month ago.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov arrived by planes to join French Foreign Ministers Georges Bidault at the council table tomorrow at 3 p. m. (10 A. M. E. S. T.).

Sources close to Byrnes said there had been no diplomatic exchanges between Washington and Moscow in connection with the peace treaties since the ministers recessed last month, and that if the Russians had relented in their stand it could be learned only after the conference reconvenes.

Louis Sues Negro Magazine "Ebony"

Chicago, June 14 (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis today filed suit in circuit court for $100,000, charging he had been libeled in the May issue of "Ebony," a magazine published by the Negro Digest company of Chicago.

Louis contended the article was "false and scandalous."

Defendants in the suit filed on behalf of Louis by attorney William H. Temple were the publishing company, John H. Johnson, editor, and Charles A. Beckett, general manager.

McNutt Nominated First Ambassador To The Philippines

Washington, June 14 (AP)—Paul V. McNutt was assigned by President Truman today to represent the chief executive at Independence ceremonies of the Philippine Republic July 4 and then take over as first U. S. ambassador to Manila.

The designation of McNutt, now high commissioner to the islands, to be Mr. Truman's personal representative at the launching of the new nation was announced by Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary. A few hours earlier Mr. Truman himself had told his news conference that the ambassadorial nomination would go to the Senate by tomorrow.

J. A. Krug, Secretary of the Interior, previously had been named by Mr. Truman to represent him at the ceremonies. Ross said the shift would permit Krug to stay in the United States "where he has a mountain of work before him." He added that the interior secretary was pleased to be relieved of the assignment for that reason.

Girl Tennis Team From U. S. Defeats Rusty British Stars

Wimbledon, England, June 14 (AP)—America's Wightman Cup players, the Sunshine Girls from California and Florida, racked up a formidable lead of three matches to none against Britain's rusty net stars today in the opening round of the seven-match international tennis competition.

Pauline Betz and Margaret Osborne in singles, and Miss Betz and Doris Hart in doubles won their matches in straight sets, and were left needing only victory in tomorrow's four tests to retain the cup the United States has held since 1931.

In the last renewal, in 1939, the Americans won by 4-2 at Forest Hills.

Miss Betz, No. 1 for the U. S. side, opened today's play on Wimbledon's center court against Britain's top player, Mrs. Jean Nicoll Bostock, and took the 23-year-old English girl into camp by 6-2, 6-4. Miss Osborne followed that with an equally decisive 6-3, 6-2 victory over left-handed Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies, and Miss Betz then returned to the court with Miss Hart, youngest and only non-California member of the team, to beat Britain's highly-rated doubles team of Betty Passingham and Molly Lincoln, 6-1, 6-3.

Rainy Day Means Rest For Big Joe

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 14 (AP)—Joe Louis, in earnest training for his meeting with Billy Conn next Wednesday evening, snoozed placidly through much of a rainy day, today, rousing his large self only occasionally to eat and inquire if the fish were biting.

The champion took full advantage of his last complete day of rest before he lays his title on the line in Yankee Stadium. He intends to box six rounds tomorrow, eight on Sunday and a final four-round stint Monday, with a few miles of road work each morning.

The feeling around Joe's camp was that the big negro probably would take things very easy against his sparring partners from here on, risking no last-minute injuries to his hands and taking no chances of incurring a cut on his face that Conn might be able to work on.

Perhaps the most important information elicited in a careful investigation of the Louis camp today was the fact, vouched for by Joe's personal cook, Bill Bottoms, that the champion is eating a lot better than he did before his first scrap with Conn five years ago.

er than their opponents and playing on Wimbledon's renowned No. 1 court for the first time, held the upper hand from the very start, when Miss Betz began by winning three straight points.
